Bryan's Offspring Bred to Politics, Says Col. Rogers

(Special To The News)

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 23.—Say, you know I wrote you the other day about a wonderful woman politician who has since been nominated. Mrs. Ruth McCormack of Illinois, daughter of Mark Hanna. Well, there is a live Democratic woman, too, and that's Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of William Jennings Bryan for congress in Florida from the Miami district and she is another woman that really belongs in politics, for she was bred in politics. That will be two daughters of two great politicians. Who are the Republicans going to nominate for president? They are liable to furnish the comedy this year.

Well, Sinclair come clear. Now, if his horses in Maryland can just prove they are innocent.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Despite the fact that the spring has been very backward, the cherry blossoms are beginning to burst forth. Small leaves are also to be noted on the lilac bushes at the present time. There are slowly developing indications that summer will come again.

Takes very little in the way of the unusual to collect a crowd of curious spectators downtown. Saturday, some of the fire hydrants were opened and streams of water turned out, for some reason, and in each instance a crowd of the curious stood around and watched the water pour into the street.

Tomorrow is primary election day. Pa Newc expects to go to the polls and vote, and hopes all of his great New Castle family that is enrolled and eligible, will do likewise. The election is an important one.

Another problem is presenting itself with the interest that is developing in aviation around here. Many traffic tie-ups developed along the Wilmington road Sunday because of the habits of autoists, largely those from Ohio, parking along the improved highway, to watch the plane rise and alight at the flying field.

Indications are that the work of eliminating the traffic hazard at the intersection of State and Greenwood avenues, will soon be inaugurated. The city has purchased the properties that are the obstruction, and they are already vacated. Greenwood avenue from West Washington street to State street is to be paved when the houses at the intersection are removed.

This is clean-up week, as designated throughout the state. Today is Highway day, and Tuesday is designated as Forestry day, when brush, briars, branches and other inflammable material about the houses, gardens and fields, and along the road, should be removed.

What does one do on a rainy Sunday afternoon? Or what does the average family do? Well, yesterday afternoon Pa Newc invaded one of the North Hill households, and this is what he found: Papa was nodding over the feature section of a Sunday paper, mother was reading one of the newer novels, big sister, they told him, was catching up on her beauty sleep, and the two younger ideas were alternately asking questions and scrapping over the "funny paper". So there you are.

And Pa Newc made another startling discovery yesterday. There are some places that one can go where the host does not immediately insist on turning on canned music of one sort or another. He is to be congratulated. He has not yet forgotten the art of conversation, to which one can play the chorus by interjecting a "Yes" or a "No" in strategic places.

VIGNETTES—In the lobby a man is reading a psyiological tome . . . . And the old saw states that "it is not polite to know about one's insides." . . . . A young man with a new hat trying to dodge the raindrops. . . . . And the tiny blare of a cheap phonograph coming from a third floor apartment. . . . . Where have the travelers gone who used to clog the jail house overnight? . . . . Above it all the "swosh" of the furnaces as they turn out steel, steel, and more steel.

Magazines in school libraries are great factors in informing the students of elementary, junior and senior high schools, of the new developments along various lines. The rack in the library of the senior high school now contains some 20 periodicals and each one receives plenty of handling each school day, showing that students do like to read magazines.

Flight Over North Pole Fails To Reveal Any Hidden Continent Exists

Some Valuable Discoveries Are Made As Result Of Flight

By ARNE KILDAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

OSLO, Norway, April 23.—Capt. George H. Wilkins and Carl B. Eielson, who flew over the Arctic from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen by plane, have abandoned their plan to fly to Oslo and will remain at Spitzbergen until they can leave for Norway by steamship, said a Green Harbor dispatch to the newspaper Aftenposten this afternoon.

On account of the huge masses of ice off the Spitzbergen coast it may be a fortnight before the exploring airmen can leave for the south. They intend to take their plane with them.

OSLO, Norway, April 23.—Completely rested and with their hunger appeased after the five-day isolation at Doesmansoera (Dead Man's Island) which climaxed their epic 2,200-mile flight over uncharted polar wastes, Captain George H. Wilkins, Australian explorer and aviator, and Carl Ben Eielson, Norwegian-American, pilot, today planned their return to civilization at Green Harbor, Spitzbergen.

The seven inhabitants of Green Harbor received the fliers very hospitably. Neither showed any ill-effects from their hazardous venture, though they suffered from the pangs of hunger during their enforced stay on the uninhabited isle of Doedmansoera.

It is believed that their plane, a machine of American make, suffered no material damage in the two landings made by the fliers.

Two Slayers Are Electrocuted At Rockview Today

Marko Matakovich Of Washington County And Philadelphia Negro Die In Chair

EXECUTION ACT QUICKLY OVER

(International News Service)

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, BELLEFONTE, Pa., April 23.—Marko Matakovich, Washington county, and Rodgers Loftus, Philadelphia negro, were electrocuted here early today for murder.

Matakovich, first to die, was strapped in the electric chair at 7:01 a. m., and was pronounced dead at 7:07, after three contacts were required to snuff out his life.

Loftus followed, taking his place in the grim chair at 7:08, and being pronounced dead at 7:14. Three contacts also were required for him.

Matakovich, the confessed slayer of George Grgich, was the first to leave the little tier of cells across the corridor from the death chamber.

Speedy Executions

Flanked by two burly guards, he paced the sixteen steps to the chair without faltering, and took his seat. Before there was opportunity for any possible scene, the electrodes were adjusted and the first crashing shock was sent through his body.

There was a brief pause, while the executioner slowly slid the reostat back and forth, then a second and third charge were sent through the body.

He was hurried from the chair only a minute before Loftus stepped into the room, and the process was repeated.

In his confession Matakovich admitted he was friendly with Grgich's wife and that he purchased a revolver to kill Grgich after the latter's wife had refused to obey his request to shoot her husband "in his left side while he sleep."

Loftus was convicted in December, 1926, of killing Dora Terrell. His case was appealed to the supreme court which upheld the decision of the lower courts and he was sentenced to die November 4, 1927.

Primary Not Referendum On Party's Choice

Will Not Bind Delegates To Any Individual Candidate For Presidency

HOOVER SENTIMENT STRONG IN STATE

Majority Of Democratic Party Candidates Favor Governor Smith's Candidacy

(From News Bureau)
(State Capital)

HARRISBURG, April 23.—Pennsylvania's presidential primary on Tuesday will not bind delegates of either party to any individual candidate for president.

Neither the Republican nor the Democratic primary in this state will be an actual referendum vote for instructions to delegates in the national nominating conventions; but in the Democratic party, the primary election will virtually decide whether district delegates will be for or against Governor Smith.

Sentiment For Hoover.

In the Republican party, the Mellon leaders have insisted upon an uninstructed delegation, preferring to await campaign developments and select the candidate they will support when the convention opens in Kansas City. There is, however, a strong popular sentiment for Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, and half a dozen candidates for delegate have made direct pledges to Hoover.

The Democratic party, a majority of the canidates for delegate favor Governor Smith for presidential nomination; but a military minority, led by former National Chairman Vance C. McCormick, is backing a list of candidates for delegates in opposition to the Smith candidacy. At present Smith appears reasonably certain of 45 votes, with the possibility that outcome in contested districts will increase the Smith delegate strength to a figure close to the prediction of National Committeeman Joseph W. Guffey, that 60 to 76 Democratic votes will be for Smith. The combined

Tennessee Area Is Threatened By High Water

Heavy Rains In Middle Tennessee Send River And Tributaries Over Banks

(International News Service)

JASPER, Tenn., April 23.—Middle Tennessee was threatened today by rising waters of tributaries of the Tennessee river which have overflowed their banks and flooded lowlands, due to heavy rains.

Water over the Chattanooga-Nashville road between Sewanee and Jasper reached a depth of five feet in places, tying up all motor traffic on this route.

Election Boards Asked To Report

While there are not a large number of stirring contests at the primary election of Tuesday, there are a number in which local interest is being manifested.

The News is anxious to secure a report of the vote cast for state senate, state legislature, both in city and county, and for district delegates to the Republican National convention, as early as possible.

It will be appreciated if the election board officials will report the tabulation in these contests as soon as possible Tuesday evening to The News. Call 4000.

Assassins Shoot Former Chief Investigator For State's Attorney Crowe

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, April 23.—Ben Newmark, former chief investigator for State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, was shot to death in his home by unknown assassins early today.

Newmark was sitting on one of twin beds when the assassins fired upon him with sawed-off shotguns through the window of his bungalow.

Mrs. Newmark had retired in the other bed but was not yet asleep when her husband was slain.

Dies Without Statement

Mrs. Newmark was in a state of hysteria when police arrived and could not give a coherent account of the shooting. Newmark was still breathing when the officers found him, but he died on his bed without making a statement.

The assassins had placed a flower box on the ground underneath the bedroom window in which they stood to fire the fatal shots. The window was protected with iron bars, as were all of the bungalow windows. The murderers stuck the shotgun through the bars and into the open window.

Newmark recently has been doing private detective work, it is understood. He has been a political protege of corporation counsel Samuel Ettelson, of the Mayor Thompson organization.

Chicago, April 23.—Four men were arrested and were held incommunicado here today in connection with the slaying of Ben Newmark, former chief investigator of State's Attorney Robert Crowe.

The men were rushed to suburban police stations for questioning.

Newmark was slain in the bedroom of his home early this morning by assassins who fired a shot through the open window of his bungalow.

German Fliers Impatient Over Relief Delays

Captain Koehl And Baron Huenefeld Anxiously Await Arrival Of Ford Plane

ISLAND LARDER IS NOT WELL STOCKED

Hope Repair Parts Reach Greenely Some Time Today; Many Visit Island

GREENELY ISLAND, April 23.—(By airplane to Seven Islands and Murray Bay, and land wire to New York)—Impatient over continued delays in getting replacement parts to Greenely Island for the Bremen, Baron von Huenefeld and Captain Herman Koehl restlessly awaited the arrival of the tri-motored Ford monoplane and its precious burden of supplies today.

The relief plane, piloted by Bernt Balchen and carrying Major James E. Fitzmaurice, the third member of the Bremen's crew, was expected late Sunday, but failed to appear. Stormy weather had held up the plane somewhere between Lake St. Agnes and this place, but the two German trans-Atlantic flyers were hopeful that it would arrive late today so that the repairs could get under way the first thing tomorrow morning. If weather permits, the Bremen may be able to hop off Wednesday morning. But everything depends upon improvement in atmospheric conditions so that the relief machine can get through.

Praises Inhabitants

"I want to repeat that the people of this isolated community have done everything in their power to aid us and make our stay as comfortable as possible, but we want to get on our way and finish the flight," said Baron von Huenefeld. "When we landed here Captain Le Templier, keeper of the government lighthouse, provided us freely with food from his slender larder. He himself was none too well stocked, for there had been no supply ship to the island since last autumn and the ice is so bad that it looks as though it will be some weeks before another ship can touch here.

"We have all learned one thing. The people who live in these isolated districts beyond the rim of civilization are among the finest in the world. They are hospitable and charitable and give freely of what they have."

The baron gave some additional details of the difficulties he encountered in raising money for the flight. It was financed with funds he obtained through personal loans.

There was a fresh snowfall over the week-end and the wind was high a great deal of the time. Visitors from the Labrador mainland crossed the ice to see if the relief plane had

New England In Grip Of Storm

Shipping Crippled And Crops Suffer Heavy Damage By Northeast Storm

NEW HAMPSHIRE HAS SNOWFALL

(International News Service)

BOSTON, April 23.—New England today continued in the grip of a northeast storm, which tied up shipping, caused widespread damage to crops, resulted in automobile crashes which injured 30 persons and caused the wreck of two freight trains.

Rain, hail, snow and sleet fell. Sections of New Hampshire were blanketed with snow.

The storm roared off the coast. The steamship City of Columbus from the south was forced to anchor off Handkerchief lightship.

The wreck of the freight trains occurred during the height of the storm when a locomotive and 63 cars containing perishable goods bound from the west to Boston, crashed into a switching train just east of the Pitchburg station. Wreckage tied up the main line of the Boston & Maine railroad for hours.

Coast guard patrol boat No. 139 was torn from its moorings at Provincetown and cast in the fishing weirs. Coast guard cutter No. 15 was blown from its shelter and after bumping the weirs was rescued.

Beach property all along the New England coastline was damaged by the high waves and wind.

Quiet Election Day Is Forecast

Primary Election On Tuesday Develops Little Interest In District

SOME CONTESTS FOR PARTY NOMINATIONS

With a state wide primary election due on Tuesday, April 24, which is tomorrow, there is little excitement prevailing in New Castle and Lawrence county and the indications are that the vote will not be as heavy as was at the last municipal election.

Few Contests

The reason for the lack of any unusual excitement is probably due to the fact that there are not many contests among the offices to be filled, and the fact that many of the offices show the incumbent being returned without any opposition.

While there are three candidates for United States senator, in the Republican primary, there seems no doubt that the incumbent, David A. Reed, will be returned without serious difficulty. He is opposed by William O. Harper of Philadelphia, and William S. Adams of Harrisburg.

Edward Martin is without opposition for state treasurer, and Charles A. Waters is not threatened for auditor-general, although he is opposed by Frank P. B. Thompson of Philadelphia. For judge of the Superior

Predict Light Vote In District

Pittsburgh Observers See Little Interest In Outcome Of Tuesday Primary

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 23. — Western Pennsylvania will cast a light vote in the general primaries tomorrow, according to the concensus of opinion of political observers here.

With Approximately 300,000 qualified voters in the metropolitan district of Pittsburgh, there were only a few spirited contests and these were of local significance. Neither of the opponents of Sen. David A. Reed for Republican nomination for the United States Senate made active campaigns in Senator Reed's home city.

There was some interest in the Democratic delegate contest, but no indication of an organized fight against the Al Smith element, the only group which has chosen a candidate for the presidential nomination at Houston.

PRESIDENT DEMANDS FLOOD CONTROL BILL COMPROMISE

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 23.—President Coolidge served an ultimatum on Congress today that he would veto the Jones-Reid $325,000,000 flood control bill unless it is modified to meet his demands for a heavier contribution by the affected states.

This notice was conveyed to the House by Rep. Madden (R) of Illinois, who held a conference at the White House while house leaders were trying to effect a compromise with the so-called river bloc.

The President will make no further concessions, Madden declared. He predicted that Congress would sustain a veto if Mr. Coolidge refused to sign the bill.

KNOWS BUILDER OF MACHINE THAT SET NEW WORLD'S RECORD

Attorney Walter S. Reynolds stated this morning that he is personally acquainted with J. M. White of Philadelphia, who built the racing auto which made a record of 207 miles an hour at Daytona Beach, Fla. Mr. Reynolds has known Mr. White for a number of years and expects a visit from him here this summer.

White, he says, has built his machine on different principles from the regular racing automobiles. It has a 36 cylinder triplex, and is a radical departure from regular racing machines. The car was driven by Ray Keech. He covered part of the course at the rate of 213 miles per hour.

By LELAND C. LEWIS
International News Service Special Correspondent

CONWAY, Mo., April 23.—The shepherd of the hills was never any muddier than C. C. Pyle's bunion derbyists as they plodded on through the water-logged Ozarks to Waynesville, their 51st control, 50 miles east of here, today.

Andrew Payne, Claremore, Okla., who continues in the leadership of the van with an elapsed time of 315:31:40 for the 1,885 miles from Los Angeles, carried on with his bristle-bearded rival, Peter Gavuzzi of England, keeping pace with him. Thirty-six minutes separate the pair, and neither appears to be expending any great amount of effort other than to keep track of the other.

Run Through Rain

Yesterday's lap from Springfield to Conway was through 43.1 miles of rain that ranged from a light drizzle to a driving downpour. Most of the runners and walkers wore oilskins throughout the long trek.

Glusto Umek, Italy's champion pedestrian, clocked off the miles with machine-like precision, finishing first in 6:12:03. Close behind him was John Salo, Passaic, N. J. Finnish Legionnaire, in 6:52:02.

Floyd Bennett Has Pneumonia

Reported As "Somewhat Improved" In Hospital At Quebec Today

(International News Service)

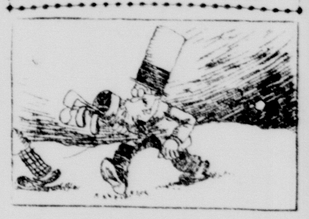

QUEBEC, Que., April 23—Floyd Bennett, who was to have piloted the Ford relief plane to Greenely Island, was reported as "somewhat improved" today at the Jeffery Hale hospital here where he is ill with pneumonia.

Bennett was more concerned that he was unable to go to the aid of the German fliers than he was of his own condition.

Few visitors were permitted to see him. His wife was notified at her home in Brooklyn, N. Y., and is now on her way to the bedside of her husband.

Bennett was very much elated when he was told that Capt. Wilkins had flown over the North Pole.

Rotary Ready For Convention

Final Plans Are Made At Regular Weekly Session Today

OFFICIAL DELEGATES NAMED BY CLUB

Fred L. Rentz, George Winter, W. K. Hugus and W. C. Wallace were the four official delegates appointed to represent the New Castle Rotary club at the 33rd district conference, which will take place Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, April 25, 26 and 27, it was announced today at a meeting of the New Castle Rotary club which was held in the Crystal ball room of The Castleton.

Other conference matters were discussed by the general chairman of the local committees, J. Lee McFate.

"Everything in New Castle is set for the conference," Mr. McFate informed Rotarians. "The only trouble that we have been having is with the outside clubs, and now they are coming through with their notices of reservations and their delegates.

"All members of the New Castle club must feel that they are members of the reception committee. It is up to us to make the conference a success; and to do this we must make each delegate feel at home.

"The first event of the conference will be the governor's ball and reception Wednesday evening at 8:30. But the members of our club must get to the Scottish Rite cathedral, where the ball and all other events of the conference will take place, as early as possible. We must be on hand to greet our fellow Rotarians of the district. The ball, and all other events of the conference, will be informal.

"Already we have a pledge of a 100 per cent attendance from the members of the local club for the dinner which will be given Thursday evening. Although we have guaranteed but 1075 guests at this affair, late reservations lead up to believe that over 1200 will attend.

"Under the direction of Mrs. Jacob Rentz, the ladies committee have been doing great work for the success of the convention from their standpoint. They have prepared a great program. The New Castle club should be proud of them.

"Thursday morning at ten o'clock, it is planned for the ladies to visit the Shenango Pottery, after which they will come to the Scottish Rite cathedral, where a luncheon will be served. Thursday afternoon, the ladies will go to New Wilmington, where they will be the guests of the ladies of the New Wilmington Rotary club and Westminster college. There they will have tea and an entertainment. Friday morning, at The Castleton, there will be a luncheon-bridge, and Friday afternoon, a program has been prepared for them at the New Castle Senior High School. Prizes for the luncheon-bridge will be donated by members of the New Castle Rotary club.

"The decoration committee plans to have Rotary flags, four by six feet, along Washington street, and each Rotarian's car will be designated by the wheel.

"In the banquet rooms of the Scottish Rite cathedral, a special system of amplification will be installed, so that speeches can be heard in all parts of the room.

"It is the wish of the club that the reception committee start functioning Wednesday afternoon."

Cathedral Sponsors Bridge Tournament

Will Hold Title Matches Among Women In Near Future, Says Manager

Do you play bridge? Or do you want to play bridge? Under the auspices of the Scottish Rite cathedral association, a bridge tournament will be conducted in the cathedral in the near future, according to Herbert Peairs, the manager.

All that one has to do to register in the tournament is to call Miss Margaret Weinshenck at 4100, who will take care of all the necessary details.

PRIMARY NOT REFERENDUM ON PARTY'S CHOICE

Smith opponents, appearing to be certain of 17 votes, hope to augment the opposition in disputed districts to 23½ votes, the McAdoo maximum in Pennsylvania in 1924.

In each party, however, there are a number of candidates for delegate who have pledged to support the popular choice of their district for president. As the names of no presidential candidates will be printed on the ballots, these candidates will be pledged on the presidency by names of presidential candidates written on the ballots by voters in the districts. Hoover and Smith are expected to get the vast majority of such votes. These pledges, however, are only morally, not legally, binding and there is no recourse if the delegate in the convention chooses to disregard the majority vote in the district as shown by names written on the ballot.

No G. O. P. Delegates Contest.

The Republican party has no contests for election of its seven delegates-at-large. Two contests at the beginning of the campaign have since been eliminated by court action. The "big seven" will be Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Secretary of Labor Davis, Senator Vare, Governor Fisher, Republican State Chairman W. L. Mellon, Mrs. Marion Margery Scranton, vice chairman of the state committee, and William D. B. Ainey, chairman of the public service commission. All seven will vote for any presidential candidate favored by Secretary Mellon.

In the 36 congressional districts, 23 have no contests for election of the two Republican district delegates. Contests in the 13 other districts seldom represent differences in choice of presidential candidates—for nearly all will follow the Mellon choice—but are based on rivalry for political control in nearly every instance. In two Pittsburgh districts, however, there are candidates pledged to Hoover, opposing uninstructed delegate candidates.

Democratic Contests.

The Democratic contests for delegates arise from three causes, choice of a presidential candidate; the wet-dry fight; and contests for political control. There are contests for election of delegates in 21 of the 36 districts, but in only nine of the districts are the contests between Smith and anti-Smith forces. In nearly every one of the remaining districts all candidates favor Smith, but are supported by different local leaders who hope to capture party control in the district.

The selection of delegates overshadows other phases of the primary. There are contests on ballots for state office, but they are not regarded as menacing. Several congressional districts however have fights whose spirit compensates for dullness in other districts.

Senator David A. Reed has two opponents for Republican renomination. They are William S. Adams, Harrisburg hotelman running on a wet platform, and William O. Harper, Philadelphia negro pastor. Although Reed with united organization support is regarded as certain of nomination, Adams may poll a larger vote than generally expected on basis of personal opposition to Reed.

Only two of Pennsylvania's present 36 congressmen are not candidates for another term. One is John M. Morin, Pittsburgh, chairman of the House Military Affairs committee, who oposed for renomination, threatened to run against Senator Reed but filed for no office. The other is former Judge Robert Grey Bushong, Reading, third Republican to represent the Berks-Lehigh district since the Civil war, but who is now supporting a Democrat to be his successor.

Nineteen of the present Republican congressmen have no primary opposition. There are Democratic contests in 13 districts four others having no Democratic candidates at all. The outstanding Democratic contest is in the Berks-Lehigh district between former District Attorney Abraham H. Rothermel and Charles B. Spatz, congressional candidate a number of times.

Mrs. Pinchot in Campaign.

Five of the Republican contests are outstanding. In the Fifteenth district Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot wife of former Governor Gifford Pinchot is opposing Representative Louis T. McFadden, chairman of the House Banking and Currency committee in the hottest fight in the state.

The four other contests are all between present and former congressmen. In the Seventh Philadelphia district J. Hampton Moore, former mayor and former congressman, is opposing George P. Darrow in a fight with Vare's endorsement as the issue. In the Thirty-fourth (Pittsburgh) district, Representative Harry A. Estep is opposed by former Congressman James M. Magee who was defeated by Estep two years ago; the Kline city administration has issued orders for Estep.

In the Northumberland-Montour-Columbia-Sullivan district Representative Fred W. Magrady has three Republican opponents, including I. Clinton Kline, former member from the district. In Schuylkill county is the most vitriolic campaign, Representative Cyrus M. Palmer, with backing of Paul W. Houck chairman of the State Workmen's Compensation Board opposing former Congressman George Franklin Brumm who is backed by former State Treasurer Charles A. Snyder. Palmer defeated Brumm two years ago.

Mrs. Pinchot is one of three women seeking congressional nomination at the primary. Representative E. M. Beers of the Eighteenth district is opposed by Mrs. Margaretta D. Campbell widow of former Representative Timothy Campbell of New York city as well as by former Congressman K. Focht, Lewisburg. Beers appears likely to win.

The third woman candidate for congress is Miss Agnes Hart Wilson, daughter of William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor in the Wilson cabinet and now contesting the Vare seat in the senate. She is candidate for Democratic nomination in the Lycoming-Clinton-Potter district which her father represented three terms and is opposed by Representative Edgar R. Kiess, Williamsport who seeks all nominations.

NO NEW CONTINENT LOCATED BY WILKINS

While Captain Wilkins made observations of great scientific value, reports received here so far indicated that he had made no new discoveries. Part of the time the aviators were in the air their vision was obscured by mist and clouds.

Spitzbergen, the northmost outpost of Europe, is still completely closed in by ice. Shipping cannot reach the island until the thaws set in about the middle of May. The fliers, therefore, will either have to fly here or wait until that time for a ship to bring them.

If their plane is in condition and they can procure fuel at Green Harbor it is believed the fliers will come here by air. Flying conditions in the northern regions are better now than they will be next month when fogs are almost continually in evidence.

May Fly to London

When the fliers reach here it is believed they will fly to London, making a stop at Copenhagen. At London, it is believed, they will ship to the United States, taking their plane with them. There are rumors that the fliers will go to Paris, but the general belief is that they will go to London.

There are also rumors, generally discredited, that Wilkins and his companion will attempt to fly back over the "top of the world" to Alaska.

It is calculated from reports reaching here from Green Harbor that the fliers left Point Barrow, Alaska, on April 15. After fighting Arctic conditions for about 21 hours it is believed they landed at Doedmansoera to get their bearings.

Then a terrific blizzard came up, which prevented them from making the 25-mile hop to Green Harbor. After five days it subsided and they reached Blue Harbor safely, with the gas tanks of their plane practically depleted.

The explorers ran into an Arctic gale of great violence after they had flown approximately 2,100 miles and were within 35 miles of their goal—Spitzbergen. This storm continued to rage for five days, holding the airmen upon Doedmansoeira from Monday afternoon until Saturday morning when they were able to hop off from the bleak, desolate and uninhabited bit of land to complete their long and daring voyage at Green Harbor.

Weather Below Zero.

Despite the hardships, cold and lack of food the men are both in good condition and are able to continue their journey at once if they decide to go.

The weather was far below zero during the entire flight and at times the cold was terrific but the Lockheed-Vega monoplan used by the airmen demonstrated that icy atmospheric conditions do not hinder the working of an airplane motor.

For more than 24 hours the ship roared over the arctic wastes with the motor working perfectly all the time.

In addition to concentrated food, matches, tobacco and extra clothing the men carried a rifle with ammunition and fishing tackle for use in event they were forced down near the pole and compelled to wait for weeks and perhaps months until rescue arrived.

Whether they were able to obtain any game in Doedmansoeira or any fish through the ice is not known.

No Human Beings Seen.

No sign of human habitation was sighted from the time the plane left Point Barow until it got over Spitzbergen where the explorers saw the wireless station, the huts and the shafts of the coal mines. Hour after hour the machine whirred through the arctic air, the desolate stillness broken only by the roar of the motor. Every minute of that time presented a peril. If the plane had been forced down by storm or mechanical trouble there would have been grave danger that the men would have perished amidst the ice wastes before succor could reach them.

Two Courses Open.

There are two courses open to the explorers.

1—They can remain at Spitzbergen until a steamer arrives to carry them southward.

2—They can continue their flight southward if they obtain gasoline.

Reports from the north state that there is a heavy ice pack off the Spitzbergen coast which may prevent a ship from getting in or out of Green Harbor for weeks. The weather is stormy and unfit for flying at this time.

That the men were able to complete more than 2,000 miles of their flight without a break indicates that they were favored by excellent weather conditions. Aside from the cold, the ice mist and wind they probably encountered no great difficulties. There is always danger of fog in the arctic if a high wind encounters open water. This results in fog.

There is intense enthusiasm throughout Scandanavia over the flight as this is the "land of explorers." Wilkins detailed report of his epic journey is awaited with eager anticipation.

Wireless stations have intercepted a veritable flood of messages addressed to Wilkins and Eielson at the Green Harbor radio station. These come from friends, from scientific bodies and from newspapers and press associations seeking details of the "great aventure of the far north."

Chief Aim of Fliers

NEW YORK, April 23.—The chief purpose of Captain George H. Wilkins' epic flight was to search for land in the hidden wastes of the Arctic and not to fly over the North Pole, according to Dr. Isaiah Bowman, one of the sponsors of the flight.

The flight was planned as an exploration project, Dr. Bowman said in a statement given out here. The flight lines were laid across the "blind spot" region most likely to yield undiscovered land, if there was any in the area, it was said.

"Captain Wilkins planned to swing to the southward and penetrate the area in which Crocker Island was thought to exist," the statement said in part. "This was the land that Peary thought he saw from the north end of Grant Land and the region which MacMillan sought to penetrate some years later."

Dr. Bowman is a director of the American Geographical Society of New York.

Finally a man came to her rescue, got into the car's sandbox, and thoroughly sanded the melee.

BALCHEN ARRIVES SAFELY AT ISLAND WITH RELIEF CARGO

The Ford plane had hopped off at St. Agnes yesterday morning, but was compelled by stormy weather to land at Seven Islands. Balchen was accompanied by Major James E. Fitzmaurice, Irish member of the Bremen's crew. It is 460 miles from Seven Islands to Greenely Island.

The plane landed at Seven Islands yesterday because of a heavy snowstorm. After landing Balchen made several attempts to get the plane into the air for the remaining 460 miles to Greenely Island, but the snow, which turned into slush under the machine's skis, prevented a take-off. It was then decided to wait until morning in the hope that the overnight frost would harden the frozen surface of the river.

Major James E. Fitzmaurice, the Irish flier who is heading the expedition bringing relief to his trans-Atlantic companions, Captain Hermann Koehl and Baron von Huenefeld, is acting as emergency pilot on the flight.

Floyd Bennett, who with Balchen piloted the Ford plane from Detroit to Lake St. Agnes, is in a hospital in Quebec City, where it was stated he was suffering from pneumonia. Ernest Koeppen, chief mechanic of the Junkers Company, and a newspaperman are accompanying Fitzmaurice and Balchen.

The doctors at the Jeffrey Hale hospital announced that Floyd Bennett, aviator who accompanied Balchen in the Ford plane from Detroit to Lake St. Agnes, spent a restless night. He is suffering from the flu and bronchitis and has a high fever. Mrs. Bennett, wife of the flyer; Commander Richard E. Byrd and two more doctors are due this afternoon.

JUST A REMINDER

Just a few more hours until the primary. You probably have made up your mind as to the candidates you are going to support, and this is just a reminder that you should vote.

I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for the General Assembly. If you believe that one term in the General Assembly fits a member for better service to his district, if you believe in tax reduction legislation, if you believe in cutting down on this centralization of authority in Harrisburg and letting the people of the cities and counties have more to do with governing themselves, then I would appreciate your vote.

My name is first on the ballot. Will you help to keep it there?

GET OUT AND VOTE ON TUESDAY

ON TUESDAY the climax of rather a quiet election campaign will take place in New Castle and Lawrence county, as well as throughout the state as a whole, when the voters will determine the party choices for various state and national offices.

While there has been unusual lethargy evident in connection with the primary campaign, this does not in any way reflect the importance of the ballotting of the morrow. No election is unimportant. There are a number of contests at the polls tomorrow, in which party selections are to be made that are of the utmost significance, and it should be the aim of every enrolled party voter to have a say in the choice.

True it is, there is little in the way of state-wide contests for party nominations, but in the congressional and senatorial districts as well as in the city and county legislative districts, there are selections to be made that should be decisive. Such a decision can only be made when there is a large turnout of the voters at the polls.

Men and women of New Castle, of Lawrence county—do your duty—get out and vote on Tuesday.

It's our greatest obligation as a citizen of this commonwealth and of the country.

GOOD AIRPORT RIVALRY

ALL This airport among cities in all parts of the country is fine stuff for aviation. Every city wants the name of having the "best" airport of them all, so more and better airports are being planned and built right along.

It goes without saying that the more airports there are, the more commercial air lines will be established, the more traveling will be done by air, the more aviation will thrive. As one writer has pointed out, a solitary airport is useful only as the starting point for sight-seeing flights or experimental flying. More airports, however, make possible flying between cities, because they provide suitable landing and starting facilities, fuel and repair supplies and the materials for commerce.

MORE GLOBE-CIRCLERS

IT IS a dull week that doesn't record a race of some sort. Just now the newspapers are taking interest in two Japanese reporters who left Tokio at the same time to go around the world in opposite directions. They are to use only normal traveling facilities. That is, wherever there is a regular airplane passenger route they may use the planes. But they cannot charter a plane to cross a continent if there is no such established route.

Their trips are competitive. The one who gets around the world in the least time will win a prize. There is a special prize for the one who spends the least money.

The one who came across the Pacific to America is doing his speediest traveling at the start. His rival is somewhere in Russia, suffering the tedium and discomfort of Russian railroad travel. Their situations will be reversed before long.

This is hailed as the most sensible globe-circling venture yet observed, although it is a little difficult to see what great gains will follow it. At any rate, it will show the status of existing modes of travel, the connection and co-operation between land and water transportation and the short cuts made possible by aviation. Perhaps it will indicate places where more effective co-operation is possible and where greater service can be rendered the public.

As a demonstration of normal, present-day traveling possibilities, the race may be valuable. Possibly there should be such a race every 25 years to point out the progress made and to compare new records with those of such globe-circlers as Magellan, Drake, and Jules Verne's hero.

DANGER IN SUPPRESSION

ALTHOUGH bristling with practical difficulties, the question of free speech is one concerning which the citizen must have well-defined opinions. Books by the hundred and platform utterances by the thousand cover the subject theoretically. The rub comes in its everyday application.

History as well as common sense teaches the simple lesson that severe repression often proves its own undoing. Impeach us we may the motives or character of the adventurous spirits responsible for the French and Russian revolutions, yet there is more than a suspicion that their bloody and tyrannous strangleholds came about partly because of the regimes of suppression as well as corruption which preceded them. One extreme leads to another; if the pendulum swings too far one way, it does not come to rest until it has gone to great lengths in the opposite direction.

People who favor unbounded freedom of speech and those who see all sorts of terrifying dangers in free speech when it permits the expression of opinions contrary to those of the majority, both overlook the fact that these matters are pretty well governed by definite law. Usually it is better to let the dissenter say his speech without protest.

It does not pay to use the heaviest artillery against the activities of that exceedingly small minority of the population which gets a thrill from being considered "radical." It thrives on hostility and threats to silence it.

After all, a sound citizenship must be exposed now and then to more or less silly extravagance of ideas. For the most part people recognize buncombe when they hear or read it. But try to suppress it and it becomes an issue to the support of which many are attracted merely because of the suppression. It is not surprising the suppressed take themselves and their pet causes seriously when they see how seriously they are taken by those who utter with them.

Hints and Dints

"Oh Promise Me That Some Day You'll Be Mine" owes its long popularity to the fellows who never popped the question.

Our idea of a clean sport is swimming.

Most stage directors seem to share the opinion that if a girl has a pretty face and shapely legs she can probably learn to sing.

At this season of the year when people are about to forget their heater and coal carrying troubles many of them take on worrying about what their favorite baseball team will do.

Today's Storyette.

A group of workmen at lunch hour were discussing evolution and the origin of man. One of the party remained silent, when a companion turned to him and demanded his opinion.

"I ain't goin' to say," he replied "I remember as how Henry Green and me threshed that all out once before, an' it's settled s'far's I'm concerned."

"But what conclusion did you arrive at?"

"Well, we didn't arrive at the same conclusion. Henry, he arrived at the hospital, and I arrived at the police station."

One thing that tastes altogether different than it smells while cooking is fish. There is no more scandalous smell to us than frying fish.

Kidnaping a girl is just as illegal, but not nearly so difficult after she gets to be 18.

An old friend of ours from Shenango township was in The News office a day or two ago and he said: "What has become of the old-fashioned ladies we used to see riding into New Castle along the Butler road and other roads on the high spring seat of the farm wagon alongside her husband?" Personally we know some who now ride into the city with their daughters in nice automobiles and we are glad they do.

A lot of folks think it's safer to know the penal code by heart than the Ten Commandments.

If a girl won't flirt in a hotel lobby there is no use trying.

The college course would get a fellow further if they'd leave out a year or two of Latin and insert a dab or two of common sense.

John Sherman's farm magazine told him exercise would make his hens lay more eggs. So John got a goat and placed it in the chicken yard to chase the chickens. The report comes from Omaha that the scheme really worked pretty well, except for one thing. The hens immediately responded with more eggs, but the darn goat ate the eggs.

It's the insane ideas that have succeeded in eluding the state hospitals that keep men poor.

According to a report 17 automobiles were stolen at the first game of the Pittsburgh ball club in Pittsburgh. Anyhow, there is some confusion as to where the busses went.

The man who thinks he is sold on a thing may not be, really. But he will be, if he buys it.

The Atlantic flyers are going to Washington first and President Coolidge will welcome them formally to America. It's a wonder New York did not raise a yip about them not stopping there on their way to the capital. New York will cash in on them later like it does on most all who go there.

Who Wants To Go Back?

"You hear a lot from the orators about 'back to the good old days,' but not so much about forward to better days," says John Clarkson in the American Magazine. "It is forward to better days that we should look."

One man says that he always loses patience with people who talk about the good old days of the thatched cottage. "They forget the pigsty that was attached to it!" he says.

The "golden age" of the Kingdom of heaven is in the future. Should we not then face in that direction? History paints a rather black picture of the human race. No one who knows the way men have come cares to go back. The only direction for the Christian to take is forward.

No matter how old the $20 bill is, it is new to most of us.

Tex Rickard has not been taking up any collection from the boys recently. Next time he will ask for a bigger one than ever—and get it. Not from us, however.

Gossips talked about the same things in the old days. The only difference was that they whispered.

By the same token that all slow drivers have thick necks, the speed demons have fat heads.

When Mr. Ford was on a sightseeing trip in London a few days ago he and his party were near the Morris Auto factory, which is a rival of Mr. Ford's car in Europe. His guide asked him if he would rather go to see where the cars were made or to a college to inspect. Mr. Ford said he would rather see engines than colleges any day. Mr. Ford knows engines better than he knows colleges at that.

Nowadays it's really difficult to tell whether there are really cobwebs in the atticor if they have something to do with the radio.

A benevolent elderly man employed his spare time giving addresses to inmates of lunatic asylums.

On one occasion, in pursuit of his hobby, he was giving a talk on a popular subject to the saner section of one of these institutions. Right in the middle of his address, one of the inmates rose up and, addressing the governor, who was in the chair, asked: "Are we obliged to listen to this drivel?"

The lecturer stopped instantly and, addressing the chairman, said: "Shall I go on?"

"You may proceed," said the latter. "That poor fellow only has one lucid interval every 12 months, and so he is not likely to interrupt again."

In Mexico at a spot where many bandits have held up motorists and robbed them, several bandits are to be executed on that very spot on the highway. They sure have some very commendable customs in Mexico, such as killing politicians and bandits that do not suit their taste.

It is worth noting, also, that very few of the big jobs are held by men who like to carry three fountain pens in a vest pocket.

There are men who could not go about the streets without wearing a hat without being looked upon as a nut or something. Of course, there are men who are not expected to go about without a hat.

The "Aw shut up" training that man receives at home is what keeps more defendants from being charged with contempt of court.

A set of golf pants doesn't make a golf player, any more than a yard of silk makes a bathin' beauty.

A Chicago preacher declares that in view of the diversity of divorce laws in the 48 states of the Union the marrying business should be turned over to the state, and it would be just as sacred and binding. Personally we do not expect to get married any more, so it cuts no figure with us.

The main trouble with the newspaper game is that when the editor is trying to slap something into the sheet just before it goes to press about an important story there's always half a dozen reports about it.

Leap Year.

The best way for a single girl to propose to a man is to sit on his knee until he proposes.

Ask your parents to object to your fellow during Leap Year. Then he will marry you for spite.

Sit on his knee. Run your fingers through his hair. Use flavored lipsticks. Propose in the dark.

Keep the parlor shades down. Last Leap Year many a girl lost her chance because the shades were up.

Buy a comfortable sofa. A comfortable sofa goes a long ways towards a successful Leap Year.

Good lights have ruined many a Leap Year prospect. Love is blind, so make it in the dark.

Tell him you can't shoot a pistol. A man may be brave and still refuse to marry a good pistol shot.

If your Leap Year prospect is skinny wear a bustle. You can sit in a chair after you get him.

Tell him others want to marry you Never let on he is your last chance. Men don't like that.

Learn to make home brew. Any man will marry any home brew maker. This is more important than cooking.

If a woman lets a man brag about his past long enough he will want her to take care of his future.

Don't paint too heavily during Leap Year. You can't propose to a man you have given painter's colic.

Look while kissing during Leap Year. No man wants to marry a girl who sticks her nose in his eye.

Don't grunt when you hug a prospective Leap Year husband. It may remind him of the price of pork chops.

Tell him he looks lonely. Tell him often and he will believe it. Then you can marry him easily.

Let him tell you the story of his life. Pretend you believe it and you will have him half married.

Get your mother to cook him a meal. Swear you cooked it. A full man will marry almost anybody.

If your prospective Leap Year husband chews gum this is nice. He can chew the rag with you later.

Buy a new dress. Tell him you made it. Claim your clothes cost a dollar a month. You can marry him.

This is a tough world. Most always when there's a man sitting at a mahogany desk thinking up something clever, there's a fellow at another mahogany desk somewhere trying to keep him from doing it.

A prominent soap maker who died recently left an estate of over six million dollars. The soap business isn't so bad, according to that.

Many of the sober, useful citizens we meet in the daytime are still useful citizens at night.

When a revolving airplane propeller hits a fellow just like as not they will find half of him in Beaver Falls and the other half in McKeesport.

A bathhouse owner at McKeesport was fined $100 as a suspicious person for barricading himself in a room of his establishment and firing a volley of revolver shots into the walls. Now why would a bathhouse man do the likes of that? Yes, we think so, too.

A lady at Uniontown, Pa., in her divorce petition stated that her husband corresponded and made dates with girls while he was in jail and the girls met him when he got out. That bird must have been a regular lady killer. Sound the almo! Pow! Pow!

We notice an item where poker playing was to be investigated by a congressional committee in Washington. No doubt they will have a game while doing it. We have to laugh at such a silly thing.

The trouble about arguing with a fool is that half of the audience will think he is doing it.

Superstition and Fear.

A 4 Billion Unit.

Don't Weep for Ford.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1928, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

Following the violent earthquake shocks in southeastern Bulgaria, many of the peasants went insane. Such insanity is caused by a combination of ignorance and superstition.

An earthquake in this country or a big fire, like that in Chicago, brings on a frenzy of rebuilding and a boom in real estate.

We do not know much and are not free from superstition. But we know enough not to go crazy when the earth slips and shakes a little.

With a few exceptions, like the Lisbon earthquake, superstitious fear has always been the worst part of a quake. Superstition has believed that the Lord was shaking the earth in anger. We know that old earth is only settling into her final shape, meaning harm to nobody.

Which is biggest of our financial giants in these days of billion dollar units?

General Motors, with 17,400,000 shares, shows a total value above three billions.

American Telephone and Telegraph Company, however, seems to hold the championship. At the end of 1927 the total assets of the company, and associated companies, at book cost, with all intangible assets excluded, were three billion, four hundred and fifty-seven million, four hundred and sixty-seven thousand dollars.

At the market value, instead of book value, the telephone and telegraph company would be worth four billions.

You will observe that, in persistent enterprise and courageous spending, the giant corporations make their own government seem small.

The United States shudders at the thought of spending three-quarters of a billion, spread over several years, to make the Mississippi safe. The American Telephone and Telegraph will spend two billions in the next five years for new construction.

The telephone company can afford more than twice the amount that the government cannot afford. Congratulations to W. S. Gifford, head of the telephone company. He might tell our government how he does it.

Changing his type of car is an expensive job for Henry Ford, with tens of millions to spend on new machinery and a gigantic revenue suddenly cut off. But the Ford Company's report shows that if you have tears to shed for Henry Ford you may save them for another day.

Leaving out what he may have saved and put away, out of hundreds of millions coming in, Ford has $654,851,061, of which $367,616,872 is cash. And selling spare parts for the fifteen million old Fords brings in sixty millions a year more. The Fords can struggle on, until their new cars get into big production. They expect to produce about 5,000 cars a day in July.

The charming and lovely Daughters of the American Revolution admit that they have a "black list", made up of public men and public speakers. "We must take great care in selecting our speakers," the ladies say, "for there is danger radicalism abroad."

Patrick Henry would be on that "black list", of course, and several other radicals connected with the Revolution. As for him who said, "Take all thou hast and give to the poor", he would be barred from D. A. R. speaking, as a matter of course.

However, these are dangerous days, it's a blessing we have those ladies to protect us.

At Austin, Tex., Congressman Connally, making one of his finest political speeches, was interrupted, his voice drowned out by a heckler in an airplane using a radio loud speaker. Swooping back and forth above the hall, the airman broke up the meeting.

Air police will be employed at Houston to prevent aerial interference with the Democratic convention. The writing on the wall was mild, compared with yelling from the sky.

Germany is thorough. Capt. Koehl of the Bremen announces his plan to return home by air and in the Bremen that brought him over. That would be the first round trip on record, a beginning of millions of trips that will be commonplace in a few years.

One Woman The Pro. Can't Teach.

He was giving her a lesson as I chanced to walk that way
And I heard him shouting, "Woman will ye mind the things I say?
You're a flubbing, dubbing female and you will be till you die
I can never teach you, and a fool I was to try."

Then the lady turned upon him: "Other women hit the ball.
And I've watched them and I tell you they don't hit your way at all."
"There you go again" he shouted just as angry as could be,
"You'll try anything they tell you but you pay no heed to me."

Then she took her clubs and left him and I said unto the pro:
"I was startled by your language, do you handle ladies so?"
And he turned upon me sadly "That's the curse of married life
All man ever gets is battle when he tries to teach his wife."

THE HILLS OF COCKAIGNE

An old medieval ballad tells of an imaginary land of Cockaigne where the hills were good to eat and drink and where nobody ever was obliged to work.

The chances are digits to ciphers, although the ballad doesn't contain the information, that the most immoral place in that whole ancient world was Cockaigne.

Having to work is the thing that keeps most people out of jail.

If we could nibble at a hill or two when we got hungry, instead of having to produce our pabulum by the sweat of our brows, most of us would become either nuisances or menaces over night.

Knowing we will have to feed the horses, punch the timeclock, or turn out the article, the next morning helps us to go to bed when we should, eat food that is good for us, and in general remain the pillars of society that we are.

With the hills of Cockaigne around the corner, routine would be unnecessary and our moral fiber would be weakened by its going.

Anyhow, after a week or so of having hill for breakfast, hill for luncheon, hill for dinner—each time chasing it down with strong draughts of hill—the most enthusiastic Cockaigneain would commit a murder or two in desperation to relieve the monotony.

After the second day he would be longing to be back on the old job where he could look over the menu at Casey's Lunch when noon came and choose what he would have for sustenance.

Punching a time-clock may be boring, but nothing like as boring as eating hill three times a day for three hundred and sixty-five days a year would be.

The time when nations produce their greatest inventions and improvements, if we take the word of the wise Lord Bacon, is during the period of middle age.

In youth they are given to arms and martial activities. Then after the struggle they settle down and make their real contribution to advancement. Then comes the period of decay and selfsatisfaction which descends to license and demoralizing luxury.

Neither in the extreme youth nor the extreme old age of a nation is the man who improves the world given the credit that is his due. In the former time, his contribution is lost in the din of war; in the latter it is unappreciated unless it adds to the immediate ease of existence.

So, a land of Cockaigne, beside being a place of little moral eminence, would be a land of old age where stagnation replaces effort and where improvements are unknown.

Edible hills are fine themes for ancient ballads. But it would not take many to ruin the best of nations.

It is a good thing for all of us that the hills of Cockaigne never materialize.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

AMERICA'S AIR SQUADRONS

Announcement was made April 3 by Postmaster General New, that, effective May 1st, 1928, air mail service will be established from New York to Atlanta, Ga., via Philadelphia, Pa., Washington, D. C.; Richmond, Va.; Winston-Salem, High Point and Greensboro, N. C., and Spartansburg, S. C. From Atlanta, the route will extend to Birmingham and Mobile, Ala., to New Orleans, La. The distance from New York to New Orleans is 1,242 miles.

Five Federal Reserve Districts will be embraced in this new route, they being Boston, New York, Richmond, Atlanta and New Orleans. The air mail service has been liberally patronized by bankers throughout the country and the additional facilities afforded by the route from New York to New Orleans will, it is felt, increase the use of air mail by the financial interests.

This route will eventually form a trunk line from Boston to the Mexican border, bids already having been asked for a route from New Orleans to the border of the Mexican Republic. The contract for this route will be let just as soon as the Mexican Government decides upon the most feasible route from Mexico City to the southern Boundary of the United States.

The contractor for the route from New York to Atlanta, is the Pitcairn Aviation Incorporated of Philadelphia, Pa., while the service from Atlanta to New Orleans will be operated by the St. Tammany Gulf Coast Airways, Incorporated, of New Orleans.

With the establishment of this service there will be a continuous air mail route from Boston to New Orleans, connection being made with the new Southern route by the Boston-New York route at Hadley Field, N. J.

At the same time comes the announcement that Air Express service has been bgun by the American Railway Express Company from New York and Chicago to Milwaukee, La Crosse, Madison, St. Paul and Minneapolis. By this service, it is now possible to ship from New York in the evening express matter delivered in Minneapolis the next morning.

France, Germany, Italy and England may devote much attention to aviation, may have their passenger lines and military air squadrons, but the mail and express lines of the United States are already covering more territory than all of Europe's lines combined.

The passenger lines of America are coming. The United States Navy is awake. Observe the Saratoga and Lexington, regular air plane factories, landing fields and all in one great ship. Yes, we will get there in the air.

And then there is Lindbergh.

SURPRISES

More and more, as I pass along through this remarkable world, I am surprised. I find new things and amazing tendencies and entrancing speculations, bobbing up all about me.

I am surprised by the kindness and good nature of men, and by the quiet constancy of women. I am surprised by the fundamental honesty of humankind, despite economic situations that would seem to make dishonesty advantageous to so many. I am surprised by the devotion to the public welfare that exists among public servants, despite the glaring examples of faithlessness to public trust that are daily exploited in the public prints.

I am surprised by the selflessness (not selfishness) of wealthy persons who could afford to ignore the interests of all humanity outside their own narrow circles, but persist, year after year, in devoting their spare time and money to constructive benevolence.

I am surprised by the cheerful sacrifices imposed by millions of poor persons upon themselves for the purpose of helping others or supporting idealistic enterprises. I am surprised by the matter-of-fact manner of many unmarried women who are foregoing half of life in order to make life full and complete for struggling brothers, sisters or parents.

I am constantly surprised by the beauty of life. By the gorgeousness of returning spring; by the infinite variety of love; by the charm of ancient houses; by the sweet simplicity of childhood; by the eagerness of intelligent Youth, seeking knowledge; by the charitable sagacity of Age, reviewing life without recrimination; by the play of light and shadow upon the edge of the woodland in the late afternoon; by the ceaseless surge of the sea, insistently calling upon all who love adventure and the mystery of Infinity.

I am surprised always by the faith of simple folk, who never falter in their believing, though subtle men may out-reason them times without number. I am surprised by the love that endureth all things and seeketh not itself. I am surprised by the hope that never fades, but keeps warm the heart that is assailed by despair.

* * *

To me this is marvelous existence, because it is so beset by surprises. I cannot get used to it. I am sure that it will never bore me. Constantly I am finding it necessary to readjust myself to the mysterious life about me. When I am tempted to believe that I know my world, I am shocked awake by another succession of these surprising revelations of the nature of this interesting human race.

Easy HOUSEKEEPING

By MRS. MEG MACGREGOR, Director of Household Science

Washing made easy

—Clothes sterilized too

I am sure many a woman will smile as she reads my headline. And it does seem a pretty big claim. But I made my own washing much easier just by adding Clorox. Now my laundry not only gets done more quickly, but it has a professional whiteness of which I am immensely proud.

Clorox is white magic in a bottle! A magic that makes boiling or soaking unnecessary; a magic that disinfects and deodorizes too, just by being present in the water!

For washing machine or tubs

Don't imagine that if you use Clorox you must change your own careful washing ways, or give up your pet soap. Wash in either a machine or tub and add Clorox—a tablespoonful to a gallon of water—to the first rinse. Your clothes will hang out on the line the whitest in the neighborhood.

Removing stains

Nearly every hamper of soiled clothes holds a piece or two so badly stained you dread tackling them. But if the fabric is white cotton or linen you need not worry. Every kind of a stain from tea to dyes—including mildew and scorched spots—will disappear under the renewing powers of Clorox.

It's good for your hands

Many women tell me that they are afraid that Clorox will hurt their hands. On the contrary it disinfects cuts; removes dye, fruit and vegetable stains; whitens the skin and softens callouses. To dispel any remaining odor just wash your hands in hot water and soap, and dust with talcum.

Your special needs

Perhaps I have not touched on your special needs and I do so want to help you. So write to me. I shall be glad to answer your letters.

THE WAY OF THE WORLD

church weddings are becoming "pagan and vulgar". Now it would seem that whether a wedding is solemnized in church and accompanied by an enormous amount of flub-dub, or whether the ceremony is performed quietly and casually in the back room of the country workshop of a justice of the peace, doesn't make a particle of difference. Much of importance can be said about marriage. Little of importance can be said about weddings.

Behavior in marriage is the test. The other day in Chicago a well-dressed man was arrested because he left his wife and children in starving circumstances. His wedding may or may not have been in church.

GIVING

Good and interesting news out of Wisconsin. In that state an examination of "giving" has been made. Returns from 5,000 tax payers show the average contribution to charity, religion, and education is about five per cent. That is nothing to be proud of. But it is interesting to note that farmers, clergymen, and laborers lead in giving. Their percentage is twice the average—10 per cent.

Where charity, religion, and education need some heavy giving is on the part of those who can afford to talk in big figures. What most towns need is a disposition on the part of millionaires to do as well in proportion as farmers, clergymen, and laborers.

REAL AMATEURS

High schools in this country need to have their athletics cleaned up. This does not mean that athletic conditions are corrupt, but they are too much on a professional basis. There is too much of the circus, the big show, the spectacle, and too little participation in games by the rank and file. It would be a good thing if paid coaches were abolished in high schools.

Konjola Brought New Health All Over His System

MR. EARL W. MARTIN
Seavy Photo

"The new Konjola medicine has become a sensation wherever introduced and it has received the same praise in other cities I have visited, just like it is being praised day after day by men and women right here in New Castle", said the Konjola Man yesterday at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, this city, where large crowds of people from all over New Castle are calling throughout each day to hear his personal explanation of this celebrated remedy.

The fame of Konjola is due largely to its beneficial effects on such important organs as the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Many people who have taken this compound say there is nothing like it to restore a normal condition to these parts of the human system. Konjola has also proven unusually excellent in cases of rheumatism and neuritis. Just the other day the following report was received from Mr. Earl W. Martin, 507 Hillcrest avenue, this city:

"This Konjola is the only medicine of any kind I have found for real relief from a general rundown condition of the entire system", said Mr. Martin. "My health was so bad that life was miserable for me. But everything is different now and I am enjoying better health than I have for many years.

"My health was in such a disordered state that I never enjoyed myself. For hours at a time I would roll and toss on my bed before going to sleep. No matter how long I did sleep I was always tired and had a draggy feeling that made my work a drudgery. All during the day my head ached and my whole body seemed sore and stiff. My kidneys were so weak that I had to rise several times every night and I suffered constantly with a severe pain across the small of my back. I did not have much appetite but what little I managed to eat did not nourish my body and I was steadily losing weight. Besides this trouble my liver was sluggish and I had a yellowish complexion. My eyes had a dull appearance and anyone could tell that I was rundown by looking at me.

"I decided to give Konjola a trial when I read in the papers where another man with a case similar to mine had been restored to health by using Konjola. I was so pleased when I noticed my strength returning that I made up my mind to keep right on taking this medicine until I completed a teratment. With every dose I could feel new life energy and vitality flowing through my body. My kidneys became stronger and I could sleep through the entire night without waking or getting up once. The pains in my back are gone and I never have those headaches. Konjola regulated my liver and cleared up my complexion. Now I have a bright appearance in my eyes. This medicine has made it possible for me to gain in weight and I have put on four pounds in a short time.

"I will always praise Konjola because it gave me new strength and glorious health. I think everyone who is rundown should give this medicine a trial because I know what it will do".

The Konjola Man is at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Commander Byrd Goes To Quebec To See Bennett

WIFE-SPECIALIST ARE BEING RUSHED

(International News Service)

BOSTON, April 23.—Cancelling all engagements, Commander Richard E. Byrd, Arctic and trans-Atlantic flyer, today was preparing to leave this evening for the bedside of Floyd Bennett, co-pilot of the relief plane bound for Greenely Island to assist the trans-Atlantic Bremen. Commander Byrd decided to leave when he received a telegram stating that Bennett was suffering from pneumonia in Jeffrey Hale hospital, Quebec.

The commander missed an earlier train to Quebec and was greatly worried at not being able to get to the bedside of his friend. Bennett was second in command of the proposed Byrd Antarctic expedition being considered indispensable for the trip.

A year ago Bennett was seriously injured when his plane overturned while he was preparing for the Byrd trans-Atlantic flight and spent several months in a hospital.

Mrs. Bennett and New York specialists were rushing from that city to Quebec, according to word received by Commander Byrd.

Youth Who Picked Up First Message Telling Of Ocean Flyers' Safety Feted By Home Town

ERWIN STEWART DAVIS

By JOSEPH S. WARD JR.
(Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News)

MANCHESTER, N. H., April 23.—The story of Erwin Stewart Davis might have been written by Richard Harding Davis.

It is the story of a young man, plugging along at his hobby without notice or reward, who suddenly found himself standing, a little dazed, in the white spotlight of fame. Whatever else happens to Davis in his lifetime he will always remember the few thrilling hours when the breathless attention of the world was directed toward his little radio room.

After the German plane Bremen had not been heard from for so many hours that saddened nations concluded three more brave men had lost their lives, Davis was tinkering with his little home-made set, in his home, 73 Manchester street.

Caught First Message

He swung the dials, picking up this and that, until he finally caught a few words of a code message coming from the Canadian government radio station at Louisburg, N. S. He listened to the message, absorbed.

"German plane landed an Greenely Island, known," said the message. "Slightly damaged. Crew well."

Davis ran to the telephone to ask the Manchester Union for details. To his surprise, amazed incredulity greeted his message. The code story which was being sent out from Nova Scotia had not yet reached the world at large.

Convinced of the accuracy of the young man's report, the newspaper put the story on the wires. Within a few minutes it was ticking in every newspaper office in the land and going out over the air to millions, by means of the big radio chains.

Became Hero Overnight

Davis' name sang on the wires from coast to coast, and even went under the oceans to other continents.

The next day Mayor Arthur E. Moreau of Manchester summoned the young man from his home to the mayor's office at city hall. Most of the city officials were gathered there.

"The city of Manchester," said Mayor Moreau to Davis, "is proud of you for the signal honor and world-wide publicity you have bestowed on it." And to make the youth's happiness complete, the mayor added: "We will show our pride in you by sending you to meet these flyers at New York as a special envoy of the city."

Young Davis is 18. He had a radio set when he was only five years old, and his interest has never waned. He has a number of radio achievements to his credit, is a relief wire operator for a company and is studying to be an electrical engineer. Even if he realizes this ambition, it will probably not give him the thrill of the day when he was first with the news of the Bremen.

The state supreme court handed down an opinion affirming the judgment of the lower court.

"BODY ODOR never troubles me," is what we tell ourselves.

But we can never be sure. For, once an odor becomes familiar to us, our own sense of smell becomes deadened to it. Others know when we offend—we don't!

Facts about body odor

To live, we must perspire. Even on cool days our millions of pores continually give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of waste every 24 hours.

Whether we see it or not, this body moisture is always odorous. And it never plays favorites. Failing to take precautions, we may all offend—no matter what our position in life may be.

Yet there is a simple way to end body odor. Just wash and bathe often with the delightful toilet soap that millions enjoy—Lifebuoy—it deodorizes!

The same bland and abundant antiseptic lather that helps protect health by removing germs—prevents body odor by purifying pores. For complexions, too, Lifebuoy is marvelously beneficial. Millions find it ideal for every toilet purpose.

Note its hygienic scent

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent, which tells you Lifebuoy purifies, yet which quickly evaporates after rinsing. Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

Here are some hints on what to serve for Sunday evening lunch. Simplicity should be the aim of the hostess, as she wants to make the meal as appetizing and pretty as possible with the least work and trouble in serving.

Egg Soup Croutons
Olives Celery Radishes
Bread and Butter Jelly or Jam
Cake Tea
or
Baked Apples on Toast Celery
Cookies Cocoa

Today's Recipes

Baked Apples on Toast—Trim and butter six half slices of stale bread, arrange them in a buttered baking dish. Core three juicy apples and halve them crosswise. Lay them on the bread with cut side down and cover with a mixture of one large cup of honey, and a half cup of chopped nuts, lightly salted. Bake half an hour or until the crusts are brown, crisp and sugary and the apples tender and foamy. Serve with whipped or plain cream. Butternuts or Brazil nuts are best for this, but hickory nuts may be used.

Egg Soup—Allow one slice of bread, one cup of milk and one egg per person. Cut slice of bread into half-inch bits and brown in butter to delicate croutons. Remove from skillet to the bowls in which it is to be served. Have ready the beaten egg and milk, pour in skillet and stir. The egg thickens the milk before the milk boils, adding to the digestibility of both. Season, pour over croutons. Serve piping hot.

Suggestions

Dusting Cloths.

When you have finished the week's washing, take the dusting cloths and wash them in some of the warm suds. Then dry and put them in a tin box with some furniture polish sprinkled on them. When the cleaning days come they are all ready to use.

Belt Stays in Place

If your belt buckle slips awry, fasten a snap fastener to the dress and the other part of it to the belt and the buckle will stay anchored.

MENU HINT.

Tuna fish is called the "chicken of the sea" because it has such firm white meat and tastes a bit like chicken. It is much cheaper than chicken also much less work because it comes to us all ready cooked and may be quickly made ready to eat. This tuna fish a la king is a comparatively simple dish to prepare.

Tuna Fish a la King Riced Potatoes
Buttered Beets or Beet Greens
Cheese and Pineapple Salad
Maple Custard.

Today's Recipes.

Tuna Fish a la King—One pound tuna fish, four tablespoons chopped stuffed olives, one and one-half cups white sause, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, one-half cup peas, one-half cup mushrooms, one teaspoon paprike. To the white sauce add the other ingredients. Heat and serve with toast fingers.

Maple Custard—Beat four eggs until foamy. Add a pinch of salt then beat in one-half cup of thick maple syrup and three cups of milk. Stir until well mixed. Turn into custard cups, set in a pan of hot water and poach in moderate oven until firm.

SUGGESTIONS.

Sink Brush.

When a whisk broom becomes too old to use for brushing clothes simply cut off the bristles up to the stiff part. This makes an excellent sink brush which easily gets into all the corners.

Reinforcing Rug.

This housewife's experience may help some one else.

"I had a 36x72-inch rug that was breaking near the center. I took a piece of table oilcloth the width of the rug and nine inches wide and pasted it firmly on the wrong side of rug over the crease. Now it lies down flat and will give some more service."

Delicious Bread Pudding.

When molding bread for the last time put two cups of dough on a buttered pie to patting the dough out to the edge of the tin. Set in a warm place to rise. An hour before dinner time have ready a two quart pan filled with good cooking apples peeled and sliced. Turn the pie upside down over the apples letting the dough fall carefully on the apples. Steam one hour. Serve with sugar and cream.

Supplementary Furniture.

In these days of small apartments every inch of space is valuable. A couple of camp stools are a very present help when chairs are limited in number. They can be lacquered to match the other furniture and the canvas covered with cretonne. Keep a piece of wall board covered with white oil cloth, ready to lay over one of the stools to form an extra serving table when needed.

Many Things Influence Vice Presidency Choice

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and New Castle News.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—In the midst of all the guessing that's going on concerning presidential possibilities, what's the reason we hear practically no speculation as to vice presidential possibilities, too?

It's true that the vice presidency isn't supposed to amount to much generally, in the long run.

Still, a vice presidential candidate's quite a personage during the campaign. The vice president also ranks as a middling prominent citizen while he's in office, even if he's forgotten pretty promptly after his term ends.

Besides, there's always the chance that he'll land in the White House. It has happened six times out of 35 terms—almost a 15 per cent average.

* * *

The vice presidency potentially is mighty important.

The party which makes a careless choice is liable to regret it bitterly, in case of accident, later on.

It's of historic record that the Whigs threw fits, for four long terms, minus only one month, because John Tyler's politics didn't turn out to be what they'd expected, when they named him as William Henry Harrison's running mate.

* * *

The fact is that the vice presidential nominations are a good deal harder to guess on than the nominations for first place.

The situation of today illustrates it. If the Republicans nominate Herbert Hoover, one kind of vice presidential selection will be in order, to offset him. If they should happen to nominate Senator Borah, they'll have to look for a wholly different type of individual to bracket with him.

* * *

The party which heads its ticket with a liberal aims to balance him with a conservative—or vice versa.

Farm and city, east and west, wet and dry—that's the system.

A presidential candidate's nominated because his party leaders hope to win with him—at least consider him their best bet, all things considered.

His partner's a sop to the disgruntled element—there always is one.

* * *

A presidential possibility usually is a secondary possibility for the vice presidency, but not always.

Frank O. Lowden wants the presidency or nothing. He proved it in 1920—not knowing, of course, that he'd be president later if he'd accepted the vice presidency then. However, he doubtless would do the same thing this year.

It isn't at all likely that Al Smith would take second place—probably not Jim Reed—or Herbert Hoover—or Charley Dawes, again.

The "favorite sons" are a different proposition.

Spring Convention Of Beaver Valley Presbytery, May 12

The spring convention of the Beaver Valley presbytery, Young People's Christian Union will be held in the Third United Presbyterian church of this city on Saturday afternoon and evening, May 12.

Although the complete program for the meeting has not yet been announced, it is known that James C. Mace, teacher of the Friday noon Bible class of the Pittsburgh Y. M. C. A., will be the main speaker of the day.

Other details of the gathering will be made known later.

There are representatives in Congress that can be driven to water for the other fellow who can't be made to drink it themselves.

It is our experience that the chap who boasts loudly about his blue blood is generally suffering from pernicious anaemia.

The Basic Soundness of Public Utility Securities

NO better testimony to the basic soundness of public utility securities can be cited than the great increase in the holdings of such securities by the banks and insurance companies during the last ten years.

Insurance companies now own over 900 millions and the holdings of banks—state, national and private—amount to 1,150 millions. A total of over 2 billion dollars now held by these institutional investors.

The insurance companies and the banks of the country are competent authorities in financial matters. They recognize that safety—the prime asset of the utilities—is assured by the permanent nature of their assets. They perceive the great and growing market for utility services and realize the steady earning power which is assured by the indispensible character of the industries.

It is these basic elements that are influencing careful investors to buy preferred stocks of light and power companies for dependable income investment.

GROCERIES STOLEN.

J. F. Glasser, Portersville R. D. No. 3, reported to Officer M. J. When he went to get his machine he found that some unknown person had stolen a basket of groceries valued at several dollars.

ALL HER HEALTH TROUBLES HAVE BEEN BANISHED

Lady Describes Far-Reaching Effects Of Famous New Medicine, Ten Herbs

"Ten Herbs ended all my health troubles; and, therefore, it is a pleasure to recommend such a splendid preparation," was the statement of Mrs. Walburga Rosenberger, whose address is Box 65, Glenfield, Pa., (near Pittsburgh), to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine.

MRS. WALBURGA ROSENBERGER

"I was troubled with gas and bloating, which showed that my digestion was impaired," Mrs. Rosenberger continued. "Gas would work up around my heart and cause it to palpitate. I had to be very careful what I ate, and eating anything fried or greasy was out of the question. I was constipated, and my liver was sluggish. I lost all ambition and energy, and my nerves were getting on edge.

"I was attracted to Ten Herbs by reading so many local endorsements, and when I learned that it was purely herbal, I did not hesitate to give it a trial. I found Ten Herbs to be just what I needed. It improved my digestion, and now I can eat anything without fear of misery afterwards. I am no longer troubled with gas, bloating or palpitation of heart. My bowels are regular, and my liver and kidneys are working the way they should. Biliousness has left me; my complexion has cleared, and my nerves are quiet. Ten Herbs will be the one system purifier and tonic for me in the future, and I am sure that this will be the decision of all who are fortunate enough to learn about this medicine and the fine results that it gives."

Every day local men and women pour out their hearts in sincere words of gratitude for the wonderful relief Ten Herbs has given them. This new herbal medicine is proving a sensation in this city, where it is relieving many of stomach, liver and bowel disorders. Ten Herbs is a splendid spring tonic, as it gives the entire system a thorough cleansing.

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

Toothless men of Omaha, Neb., have formed a No Tooth Club, one of their tenets being the advocacy of more and better mashed potatoes at restaurants. Maybe they'll be able to pass a constitutional amendment, forcing everybody to eat that kind.

The friendship of some men isn't too great a price to pay for telling them the truth.

Letter From Benjamin E. Thompson to the Voters of Lawrence and Beaver Counties

Dear Friends:—

At the earnest solicitation of a large number of my friends I was induced to enter the race to represent you in the Senate at Harrisburg from the 47th district. When I entered the race it was my intention to make an active campaign and so far as possible to interview each of you and at that time ask your support and influence in obtaining this office and the opportunity of serving you. Owing to the fact that I was seized with an attack of La-grippe with sinus trouble following, it has been impossible for me to see you. A fact which I greatly regret. If I had been able to see you I would have made clear my position on any and all the questions that might come up for consideration during my incumberency in office. I would have made it clear to you that no ring of politicians, either statewide or local were behind me; that I was independent of any Corporation which has entered into politics for selfish purposes. I would have called to your mind a natural query as to why any corporation should enter politics unless it had ends to gain other than that which accrue to all corporations alike. I would have made it clear that such Corporation nor its representatives had endorsed me, nor had they been asked to do so. I would not have made a point of being dry in Lawrence County and wet in Beaver County. I would have pointed out to you, as I do now, that I did not have a record of public office behind me stretching over a period of years, which benefited me and my business in ways that were against the public interest. I would not have intimated that my opponent, if he had been seized with an attack of La-grippe, was a sickly person and might be unable to perform the duties of his office, if he were elected to the same. I would not have made impossible and innumerable promises throughout the whole district and such promises as I would have made I would expect implicitly to fulfill. I would have pointed out that my interests were not so much with the State ring, and with one individual corporation, but with all corporations, with labor, and with all the various and diversified groups that make up the district. I would have pointed out that I was not a chronic office seeker, that I was not forever before the public asking some office at its hands. I would have asked you to compare my private life, my business achievements, my sincere efforts for civic and moral uplift with those of my opponent. I am proud of the fraternal, and social religious groups to which I belong and I take this method of asking their support.

Some of the things for which I stand and will sponsor bills, if elected are:—the construction and maintenance by the state of all the bridges on state roads, and all licences for Automobiles to be issued at the county seats in each county.

I claim for myself a clean vigorous mind, a knowledge of the needs of the district, and being unfettered by corporation or political dictation, will be able to represent you in a fearless and efficient manner. I regret sincerely my inability to see each and all of you, at this time, I ask your support and influence at the primaries next Tuesday, April 24th, and I assure you that your support and influence will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

Benjamin E. Thompson

Ten Greatest Books Of Quarter Century

What Would Be Your List? University Librarian Gives His Choice

If you were asked to name the ten greatest books and the ten greatest authors of this quarter century, what would be your verdict? At the New Castle Public Library the librarian has just received a list of what Asa Don Dickinson, librarian of the University of Pennsylvania considers to be the most important books and authors since 1900.

It is strange, but in several instances the important authors have not written the important books. The list follows:

The ten greatest authors: John Galsworthy, H. G. Wells, Arnold Bennett, George Bernard Shaw, Edith Wharton, Joseph Conrad, Booth Tarkington, Rudyard Kipling, W. H. Hudson and Joseph Hergesheimer.

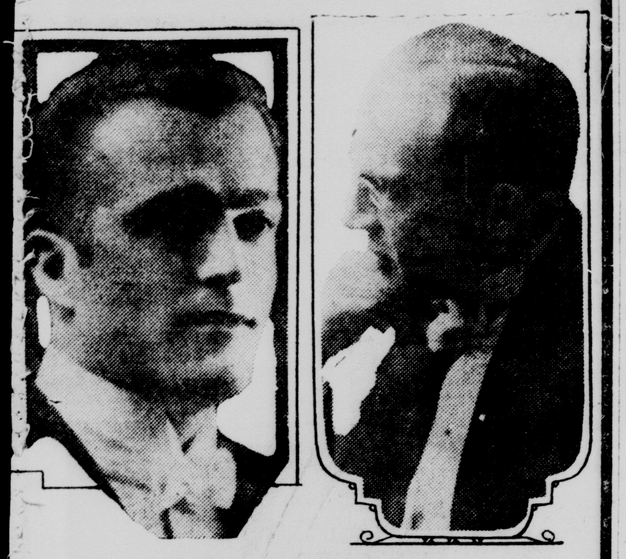

And the ten greatest books according to Librarian Dickinson are: An Old Wives Tale, The Forsyte Saga, Kim, The House of Mirth, Jean-Christophe, Java Head, The Narrative Poems of John Masefield, Spoon River Anthology, Penrod and Etnan Frome.

Evidently some of the more minor voices in their choir of authors stepped out of their classes and wrote one single work by which they will be known to posterity. All of these books and works by the authors named are on the library shelves.

He avoids piling trouble up by the peck,

Farmer Tricks Hens To Longer Work Day By Fake Sun Device

By EARL B. DOUGLAS
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

ORANGE CITY, Ia., April 23.—There's no stalling among the hens on the farm of A. H. Van Zee, of Orange City. He's one farmer who believes that "Biddy" should get up in the morning, before "sunup" and get busy about the business of the day—laying eggs.

It's all because Van Zee has perfected a device that fools the hens into thinking the sun has risen.

Van Zee long ago made up his mind that his hens should earn more money, and he decided that they were too lazy and stayed too long on the roost. The remedy was to find a substitute for the sun, and so he has the solution.

Alarm Clock Device

The device is regulated by an ordinary alarm clock, which is set for the desired time for the hens to get up, and the alarm wind key, which turns when the alarm rings, operates an automatic generator and lighter. A "hot-shot" battery, wired through a vibrating coil, supplies a hot spark which ignites alcohol with which asbestos, in a generating pan, has been soaked.

A six inche steel shaft, bolted to the alarm wind key, is fixed to a valve, and when the alarm goes off the valve is opened. The shaft also has a contact plate which revolves at the desired time, and comes in contact with a spring which is wired to a terminal of the vibrating coil, sending a spark into the generating pan of the lantern. While the alcohol flame generates gas, the shaft continues to revolve.

Illuminates Hen House

There is a chain winding around it, and in a few moments its slack is taken up and it begins to pull on a lever bolted to a handle, which opens a feed valve. The lantern now is fully lighted and the hen house is illuminated by a 300-candlepower light. The hens get up at once, welcome this new-fangled sun, start scratching, and then go to the trapnests.

The device is so well worked out and protected that there is no danger of its setting fire to anything. A screen over it keeps the hens from coming in contact with any part of the "works."

See Great Plane Show At Detroit

Also Take Trip In Air Over City —Consider Plane For New Castle

According to D. Roy Bradford, manager and treasurer of the newly organized New Castle Aircraft corporation, nothing definite has been decided upon concerning the purchase of a new plane for the proposed local air service line.

With John S. Crowl, president of the airways company, and J. W. Hartwell, local automobile dealer, Mr. Bradford journeyed to Detroit last Friday to visit the national aero show, held in the Michigan city for the purpose of selecting a plane for the proposed air line, which the company is backing.

"We examined several new types of planes," said Mr. Bradford. "However, we have not yet met with any decision in regards to our trip to Detroit."

On arriving at Detroit they went immediately to the Ford aerodrome at Dearborn and had a delightful visit there. Here they inspected two of the new Ford tri-motored passenger planes, constructed the same as the one which is dashing north at the present time to rescue the German fliers, stranded on Greenely island.

Mr. Hartwell, another member of the group, states that there were over 50 other makes of planes at the exhibition along with the two Ford planes. These belonged to different men attending the exhibit.

"The two large Ford planes make trips over the city of Detroit every 15 minutes," says Mr. Hartwell, "and we took one of these trips. A wonderful view of the city is to be obtained from the plane."

These tri-motored Ford airships have carried as high as 25 passengers at one time and have never yet had a mishap or near-accident, Mr. Hartwell declares.

There were over a hundred different kinds of planes on exhibition at the aero show, including the Ford plane which Commander Byrd used in his epochal polar flight. "This plane was of great interest to everybody at the show," says Mr. Hartwell.

"We also inspected several of the Bellanca and Fairchild makes of planes on inspection. These are the makes which we believe we will purchase if we buy one, although nothing final has been agreed upon," concluded Mr. Bradford, the manager.

The three returned home from the Michigan city by automobile, arriving in this city late yesterday.

Never well. Always tired and fagged out. Beauty tossed away by neglect. To be beautiful and to keep youth the system must be free from poisonous backwash of constipation which often causes dizzy spells. For 20 years, Dr. F. M. PETER'S ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

WHEN THE GHOST FLIES.

"T'check! T'check! You fellows can do as you like but I am not going to hang around here any longer. I have no wish to meet with the ghost tonight I can tell you. It is bad enough to hear his wail.

"Now that Wood Thrush and Veery and Vesper Sparrow have all said good night to the day there is no telling at what moment he may appear. I am off. Happy dreams, friends."

'Happy dreams, Blackie" chirped the birds as their companion mounted into the air. Bob White immediately took to his wings.

"I am going to follow Blackie's example and get out of the way of the ghost. I feel bad enough about this daylight saving business without being scared to death. And as many times as I have heard him the call of the winged mystery always makes me shiver.'

"Me too," agreed Flicker.

"Pooh! You young fellows are afraid of your shadows" scoffed Sam Peabody. "You know as well as I do that the ghost is only a bird like ourselves. Just because he flies in the night is no reason why you should run away from him.'

"That is very true Sam Sparrow, but it is not he himself that I dislike but his voice. It makes my feathers stand on end to hear that sad moan floating on the darkness. If you will excuse me I think I will fly home. It is time I was there anyhow." Flicker politely but firmly took himself off and in spite of his brave words it was plain to be seen that Sam Sparrow didn't like to be left alone. He looked this way and that and scratched one wing nervously with his claw. Then something happened that made him lose every speck of his boasted courage.

"THE CRY OF THE WINGED MYSTERY ALWAYS MAKES ME SHIVER," DECLARED BOB WHITE

"Whip-poor-will! Whip-poor-will! Whip-por-will!" Afar off in the deep woods on the other side of the pasture sounded the long quivering cry.

Without waiting to hear whether it was coming nearer or not Sam Sparrow gave a queer little hop and flew away just as fast as his wings would take him and Peter noticed that Sam Sparrow took good care not to venture near the woods.

Can poor Whip-poor-will be the ghost that those birds were talking about! He must be or why should Sam Sparrow have scuttled off like that.

The very idea of any one being afraid of Whip-poor-will. He is a harmless fellow I am sure of that. Why he doesn't make half the noise that the rest of the birds do. He has passed me in the barnyard many an evening without a sound. I should never have guessed who it was if he hadn't stopped to rest and tell me his name of his own accord. Why in the world the birds should fear a noiseless chap like that I can't understand.

Peter was puzzled.

Man In Hospital Result Of Attack

Cutting Affray Occurs At Long Avenue Corner On Saturday Night

C. Dimilios, aged 32, who gives his address as Box 96, Mahoningtown Post Office, is in the New Castle hospital suffering from wounds sustained Saturday evening at Moravia street and Long avenue, when, the police say, he was attacked by V. Papas. At the hospital today, it was stated that the wounds of Dimilios are not of a serious character and that he will recover.

Gust Talaganis, according to the police, also sustained a cut in the hand, when he attempted to interfere in the trouble between the other two men, who were both friends of his.

The nature of the charge to be made against Papas will be determined within a few days and depends on the nature of the injuries of Dimilios.

Papas was arrested at his home on Center Way, some time after the cutting. Captain J. Ed Elder and Officers Steiner and Longstreth were at the hospital Sunday and secured the statement of Dimilios.

Stolen Car Is Recovered By State Patrolmen

H. A. Kelty, 122 Quest street, reported to the police Saturday evening that his automobile had been stolen from South Liberty street about 7 p. m.

Sergeant D. T. Nelson called Beaver Falls at once, asking the authorities there to be on the lookout for the machine. It was only a few minutes later, when the police here received a call from the state highway patrolman at Beaver Falls, stating that they had the machine and two negroes caught in it. The negroes claimed their names were S. Carson and V. Hill.

Mr. Kelty was very much pleased to recover his car because of the fact that there were some valuable papers in it, when taken. The state highway patrolmen will prosecute the charges against the negroes.

Two Versatile Juniors Edit Westminster College Annual

PHYLLIS COLEY

JAMES McQUISTON

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., April 23. —Two of the most capable members of the junior class at Westminster are editors of the Argo, junior year book, in the persons of James McQuiston and Phyllis Coley, both of Cochranton, Pa.

McQuiston, a letter man in football, basketball and tennis, is editor-in-chief of the annual, while Miss Coley, this year's May queen, is associate editor.

In addition to his athletic honors McQuiston has been one of the leaders in scholarship in his class for three years, has been president of the class for two years, is associate editor of the Holcad, weekly newspaper, has drawn cartoons for the Westminstrel, is a member of the honorary journalism fraternity, and is a member of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet.

Miss Coley, also one of the scholastic leaders of the junior class, is a member of the varsity debate team, has taken part in a number of dramatic productions, is a member of the honorary debating sorority and of the honorary journalism sorority, has been a member of the Holcad staff and a contributor to the Westminstrel, plays basketball in the interclass league and is active in a number of other campus organizations.

This year's Argo, which will be off the press within a few weeks, carries a Gothic theme throughout the book. Three-color work in the opening section and for the divisional pages will add much to the publication. A number of new features in this year's annual include a 30-page view section containing pictures of all college activities throughout the year, a May Day section and an athletic section illustrated with action photos.

The book will be bound in stiff boards, imitation leather, with a picture of the tower of Old Main Memorial embossed on the face. Books will be ready for distribution by the second or third week in May, according to Henry Brenneman, New Castle, business manager.

Beyond The Milky Way

By S. S. MYERS

At one time men believed that the earth was the center of the universe and that the sun, moon and stars revolved around it. When Galileo declared that the earth moves he was branded as a dangerous heretic, cast into prison and made to recant. But bigotry, ignorance and superstition were forced to give way before the advance of science and eventually the sun was given the place of honor as the center of the universe. Gradually, as astronomy developed, the sun lost that honor and it was conferred upon the stellar system. Then, with the advance of knowledge, it was discovered that the stellar system, including our sun and its planets, are merely a part of the milky way, and that these comprise the universe which was considered the all embracing unit. Now it has been discovered that our universe is only one among many—that there are other universes outside and independent of ours which astronomers call "island universes".

The various steps by which this knowledge has been gained makes an interesting history of astronomy. But in the space allotted to this article it would be futile to attempt even a brief outline of it. Suffice it to say that the construction of more powerful telescopes, the invention of the chronograph, the micrometer, the spectroscope and celestial photography are responsible for the great discoveries of recent times. What was once supposed to be spiral nebula have, through the aid of these instruments turned out to be vast independent systems of suns far beyond the milky way. The spiral nebula in the Big Dipper—we say "in the Big Dipper" because it is through it that we see the nebula, although it is far beyond, is calculated to be at a distance of one million light years.

It is known that some nebula, such as that in the constellation of Orion, are composed of clouds of glowing gas. The spirals, howevers, are of a very different structure. Powerful telescopes have revealed them to be vast clusters of suns thousands of times larger and brighter than our sun, because if our sun were placed as far away as the nearest spiral nebula we could not see it even with the largest telescope.

Astronomers have already discovered several thousand of these island universes. Most of them are very faint, and only one, the great spiral in andromeda, can be seen with the naked eye. Its diameter is calculated to be 50,000 light years. That is an appalling dimention, yet it sinks into insignificance when compared with our universe, the diameter of which is 350,000 light years. As none of these far off universes are as large as ours, astronomers call them island universes, while ours is called the continent universe.

Among all the spiral nebula now known to astronomers that in Andromeda is nearer to us than any other except the two so-called Magellanic clouds which are nearer—about 100,000 light years distant with a diameter of 10,000 light years. Although these are comparatively small universes they contain some very interesting stars, including one that gives half a million times as much light as our sun.

The island universes give one an idea of what a universe looks like from the outside, the milky way and all, it would probably appear as a spiral, or perhaps more like the ring nebula in Lyra.

But in addition to island universes and gaseous nebula, there are many dark masses in space—vast black clouds of dust and vapor, awaiting the touch that will set them into vibration and start them on their way to become suns and systems of worlds.

State Employes Desert Capitol To Cast Ballots

Primary On Tuesday Causes State Capitol To Look Like Deserted Village

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 23.—Capitol Hill was almost deserted today in anticipation of the state wide primaries tomorrow. Despite the lack of interest in the contest as a whole, scattered sectional fights demanded the presence of all state workers for the voting in their home towns tomorrow.

Due perhaps to the lack of any real state contests, the administration has taken little or no part in the rather quiet campaign which has preceded the primary.

Governor John S. Fisher chose the last week of the campaign to begin his annual tour of state institutions. The governor will vote in Indiana tomorrow and then is expected to return to the capitol.

Borah Says Will Rogers Never Sent That Five Dollars

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Will Rogers, the comedian, has told one joke too many and his last one will cost him $5, according to Senator William E. Borah (R) of Idaho.

Rogers boasted of sending $5 to Borah's "Republican Conscience Fund," which the Idaho senator is raising to repay the $16,000 "loaned" by Harry F. Sinclair to the Republican party in 1923. Rogers said he had listed five Republicans he wanted Borah to "clean" for his five dollars.

The only thing wrong with Rogers' little joke, Borah said today, was that he never sent in the five bucks.

"But," Borah added, "I'm going to write him and ask for the five."

Hall-Mills Slayer?

Edwin F. Allen, 28, held in jail at El Reno, Okla., has "confessed" to the Hall-Mills murder at New Brunswick, N. J. New Jersey officials are skeptical. The above photo was taken of Allen while he was serving a year's sentence for forgery in the Oklahoma penitentiary in 1927. Released last January, he was taken to El Reno to be tried on a charge of burglary. Converted by religious services in the jail, he has made a nine-page "confession," saying he was paid $5,000 by an unnamed Meriden, Conn., dentist to commit the murder which absorbed the attention of the nation.

Charge Colored Woman Wounds Husband In Arm

Angered because her husband attempted to throw out a five gallon crock filled with homebrew, last night, at their Union township home, Mrs. Sarah Cox fired a bullet into the arm of Luther Cox and was jailed after attempting to flee, according to county officers.

During the round-up state policemen, highway patrolmen and County Detective Fleming detained the husband and arrested William Miller who it is charged attempted to hide the gun after the shooting. All are colored.

County Detective Fleming will place a charge against the woman today and Miller will be charged, it is said, with being an accessory before and after the crime.

May Ask State Court To Oust Order Of Klan

Banished Members Follow Suggestion Made By Judge Thompson To Oust Klan

"REBEL" KLANSMEN ATTEND MEETING

(International News Service)

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 23.—An effort will be made through the state courts to oust the Ku Klux Klan from Pennsylvania, it was announced today by "rebel" klansmen, following a meeting here said to have been attended by more than 150 members of the 26 "banished" klans.

In deciding to initiate quo warranto proceedings, the group followed the suggestion made by Judge W. H. S. Thompson in his decision dismissing the recent case brought in federal court by the klan asking $500,000 damages and restraining injunctions against five leading members of the insurgent faction.

Testimony appearing in the record of the case charging many crimes to the klan will be placed in the hands of the attorney general with the formal request that he take action to restrain the klan from further activities in the state, according to Van A Barrickman and L. C. Walkinshaw counsel for the group.

Among the klans represented at the meeting were said to have been Leechburg, Jeanette, Latrobe, New Florence, Burrell, Scottdale, Vandergrift, Apolla, New Kensington and Monessen.

Plot To Kidnap Dolores Del Rio Cause Of Arrest

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, April 23.—A plot to kidnap Dolores Del Rio and hold the Mexican screen beauty for $100,000 ransom was revealed here today with three suspected conspirators under arrest.

At the same time it was learned that police have been guarding the star's home in Hollywood for the last two months and that a plainclothesman accompanied Miss Del Rio on her recent trip to Nogales, Mexico, where she went to obtain a divorce. These precautions were taken because the kidnaping threat has been known to police.

Details of the kidnaping conspiracy were disclosed by Gustavo Carillo, 27, in a purported confession to police.

He implicated Rosa Ayala, 34, former maid of Miss Del Rio recently discharged, and four other men, one of whom is under arrest. The name of the third suspect in custody was withheld.

Truth crushed to earth may rise again, but that California man who asked for a divorce from his beautiful movie wife "because she is so dumb" is no gentleman just the same.

At the same time Campbell announced he intended to make another attempt to better the world's record.

"I am truly delighted to hear that Keech bettered my record," Campbell said. "I plan to make an attempt soon to better Keech's mark, either at Daytona Beach or some other fast track."

TO THE VOTERS OF NEW CASTLE

The campaign for General Assembly having about reached its end, I wish to thank the voters for the many courtesies extended to me during the campaign. I have tried to set forth my platform in regard to all issues and to set forth my qualifications for the office I seek.

I have made no alliances with cliques or factions, and, if nominated and elected, I will represent the people of New Castle uninfluenced by any selfish interests. I have made no campaign pledges or promises and will make none. I have not been a party to any "political deals".

The Story Of The "Cow Country"—Part XI

IN ITS HEYDAY THE "COW COUNTRY" EXTENDED WESTWARD FROM THE MISSOURI RIVER TO THE ROCKIES, AND NORTHWARD FROM TEXAS TO MONTANA. HERE WERE VAST, UNOCCUPIED SPACES OF PUBLIC LAND OVER WHICH ROAMED COWBOYS WITH LARGE HERDS OF CATTLE SEEKING SPOTS WHERE GRASS GREW IN ABUNDANCE.

THE COW-PUNCHER'S EARLIEST RIVAL FOR THE GRASSLANDS WAS THE SHEEP-HERDER, WHO WAS, LIKEWISE, ALWAYS ON THE MOVE WITH HIS WOOLLY FLOCK, HIS FAITHFUL, INTELLIGENT DOG AND HIS LITTLE SHACK ON WHEELS.

THE COWBOY DESPISED THE SHEPHERD, BUT DID NOT MOLEST HIM SO LONG AS HE KEPT HIS BLEATING CHARGES TO THE MOUNTAIN SLOPES. BUT WHEN THE SHEEPHERDER DROVE HIS FLOCK OUT ON THE PLAINS TO GRAZE, THE CATTLEMAN WAS ALWAYS READY TO FIGHT FOR WHAT HE CONSIDERED HIS EXCLUSIVE RIGHT TO THE "OPEN RANGE".

IN SPITE OF THE EFFORTS OF THE RANCHERS, THE "COW COUNTRY" WAS DOOMED TO SHRINK BEFORE THE ENCROACHMENTS OF THE AGRICULTURAL FRONTIER. EMIGRANTS CAME FROM THE EAST, BY RAILROAD AND IN "BULL-WAGONS", TO SETTLE ON THE PUBLIC LANDS OF THE WEST AND RAISE WHEAT.

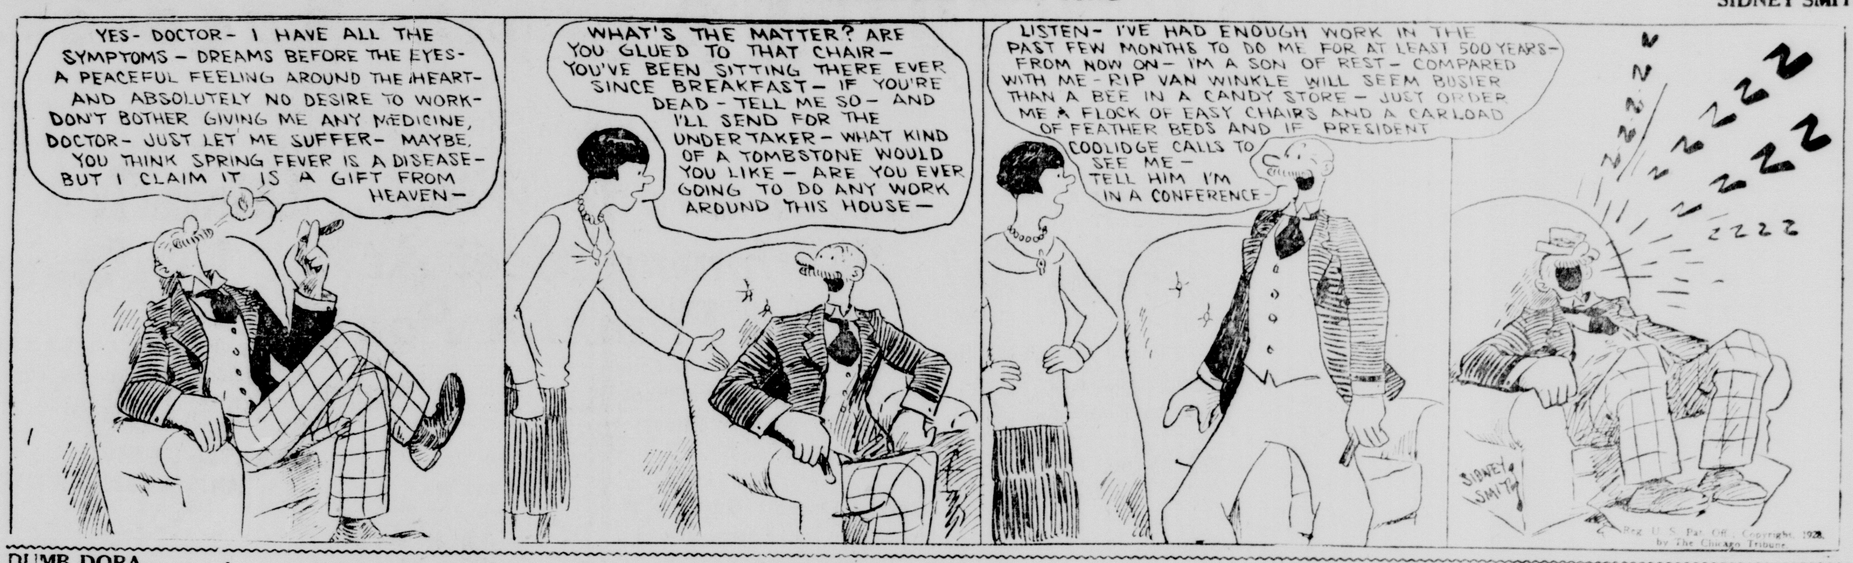

TOMORROW—CONCLUDING THE STORY OF THE "COW COUNTRY".

Connie Mack Is Satisfied With Cobb, Speaker

"Two Veteran Outfielders Not To Be Ditched", Says Leader Of Athletics

VINDICATES COBB ON RECENT SHOWING

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK April 23—Connie Mack, proprietor of some of our better known restorations in antiques, wishes to announce today that, in spite of journalistic criticisms—or maybe because of them—Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker are likely to remain indefinitely in the regular line-up of the Philadelphia Athletics. Connie was in a gently chiding mood as he talked to the writer about Ty and Tris. He seemed to feel that in the general tendency toward disapproval of their elderly efforts it might have been well to take the fact into consideration that one of the few who approves of them happens to be one of the few who is not wholly unimportant; in short, himself.

Connie Satisfied.

"I am satisfied with them, if nobody else is" said he, more in sorrow than in anger, but possibly with a modicum of both. "Cobb and Speaker are in my line-up and they are there to stay until further notice.

"There is a tendency to magnify everything Ty and Tris do. Some young fellow will have an off day and nothing is said about it. But, let Cobb or Speaker fail to play ball 100 percent perfectly and the cry goes up about them being old and crippled and decrepid and through. I think it is about time they give these grand veterans a break. They surely have it coming to them."

The writer then asked him how long he expected the pair to stick with the situation on their current day-to-day basis and he answered the question very rapidly—by asking another. This usually is parlor etiquette for requesting some one to be so kind as to mind his own dot-and-dah business. I take it that Cernelius hardly looks for the old gentlemen to be out there running around in the sun through the entire campaign.

Blames Pitching.

Their outfield he intimated had nothing to do with the team's defeats at the getaway; it was simply bad pitching, he said. The writer suggested that pitching sometimes was made to appear bad by the outfielding. Connie suggested that in this particular instance I was entitled to at least one more suggestion.

They talked about the unmistakable evidences of Cobb's having slipped after the opening game here," he went on. "They also made capital of the fact that Speaker failed to get Durocher's liner over his head. All I can say is that Ty didn't look so badly when he came in for Paschal's sacrifice fly and made a fine return to the plate nor when he held a fat man on third by his speedy backing up of a hit through the infield. Cobb's throw would have stopped the only Yankee run if Dugan hadn't been permitted to beat the catch by leaving third base ten feet too soon.

Church Managers To Have Meeting

The various managers and officials of the New Castle Church League will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. according to word today from Phil Colaluca, secretary-treasurer of the organization.

It is important that all members of the league be present tonight, as there is much business to come before the managers at this time.

Keech Breaks Speed Record

Philadelphia Auto Racer Sets New Speed Mark Of 207 Miles An Hour At Daytona

LOCKHART TO RACE AGAINST RECORD

(International News Service)

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., April 23.—With a new world's speed record set by Ray Keech, Philadelphia driver of the huge White triplex special in its sensational run yesterday against time, today awaited the results of Frank Lockhart's try in his Stutz Blackhawk.

If Lockhart succeeds in breaking Keech's record, the latter said today, he would try again. Keech bettered the old record of 206.95 established by Major Malcoln Campbell of England, here in February, by sixtenths of a mile. The huge triplex averaged 207.552.60 miles per hour in its run with and against the wind.

Keech came back to set the record after something had gone wrong with the timing device on one trial and he had failed on another.

Running north with the wind Keech attained a high speed of 213.90374 miles an hour while on his return trip against the wind he negotiated the mile at a speed of 201.56744. His time for the measured mile was 16.83 seconds.

A huge crowd cheered the Philadelphian on to victory. On his last run in his record breaking test, one of his arms was slightly burned from a flame of fire shooting out of the exhaust pipes on the huge car. He told the spectators that he put the fire out without any difficulty, however.

The rise of the auto was a terrific blow to checkers and almost killed the grand old game of pinochle. A lot of bench warmers picked up their whistles and went to work.

Let's all be honest. Don't say "law enforcement" when you mean "prohibition". Nobody approves all laws.

Cubs Nose Out Pirates, 3 To 2

Play That Gives Cubs Victory Protested By Manager Donie Bush

JOHNNY MILJUS PITCHES WELL

CHICAGO, April 23.—Forty-five thousand shivering fans sat and watched the Cubs claw the Pirates to death here yesterday afternoon by a score of 3 to 2. Johnny Miljus and Percy Lee Jones were the opposing pitchers and they both performed brilliantly.

The Pirates tallied in the first chapter and breezed along with the lead until the fourth inning. In the Pirates' half of the fourth the Bushmen shoved over another marker, but the Cubs came right back and secured two. In the eighth inning the Cubs' sent the winning run over the plate.

The game after the eight inning was played under protest from Manager Donnie Bush. The game was deadlocked at the last half of the inning and Riggs Stephenson was the first batter. The former Cleveland boy drove the ball into deep left field and it rolled into the overflow crowd in back of the emergency ropes, and Stephenson took third. The Pirates claim that he should have been held at second. Miljus bore down after Stephenson's hit and the next three men were easy outs. Stephenson scored on a long fly to Paul Waner.

Chief Umpire McCormick accepted the Pirate protest.

Tunney Reaches New York City

Tunney Is Tanned To Perfection By Florida Sunshine; Will Soon Enter Training

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 23.—Tanned to a dark brown shade by many weeks of Florida sunshine and packing more solid weight than he has ever carried before, Gene Tunney is home for a few days before transferring his activities to Speculator, N. Y., where he will train for his defense of the heavyweight title against Tom Heeney of New Zealand.

Tunney is the picture of health. He weights 202 pounds and looks hard and fit. Gene was to visit New Haven, Conn., today. It is reported that he will address the English class of one of his close friends, who is a Yale professor.

Tunney declared that Heeney is undoubtedly the best of the contenders.

"I have much respect for him," Gene said, "and I really think he is the best drawing card because of the international angle.

"I will have nearly three months of hard training behind me when I climb into the ring with Heeney. I am not holding him cheaply and I shall work with high-class sparring partners. A man who fights only once a year needs a lot of work."

McCullough Goes To Minneapolis

TOLEDO, O., April 23.—Paul McCullough, pitcher for Toledo club of the American Association, Saturday was sent to the Minneapolis team of the association for the balance of the 1928 campaign.

McCullough was transferred to the Millers in exchange for Johnny Rawlings, second baseman, who was sent to the Mudhens last Saturday. The Toledo club retains title to McCullough and Rawlings remains the property of Minneapolis under terms of the trade.

The Thinker

By Feg Murray

Never know as a "master mind," nevertheless Miller Huggins, mite manager of the New York Yankees, has won one more pennant in the last seven years than his rival New York pilot, John McGraw, who is noted for his heavy thinking ability. Here is a picture of the Miller in a thinking pose, (no, little boy, he is not whistling through his fingers,) cogitating, nay, even ruminating on what the present or current season holds in store for his beloved Yankees.

True, in the training season the proud champions of the World didn't look too good. They gave the impression of a team that thought all that was necessary in order to win a game from Asheville or Nashville, or even Brooklyn, was to go out on the field and cause people to say, "Ah, the New York Yankees! Wonderful! Great! Stupendous!" But Miller didn't worry, at least not much, and when the season got under way, and his club won their first three games and the Yanks too their accustomed place at the top of the "American League Club standings," everybody felt better.

The Yanks are very lucky in having the double attraction of Ruth and Gehrig, who travel around helping to win games and bring in gate receipts by their home run act. Babe let Lou get the jump on him in 1928, but they pay off on what's done in 154 games. The fact that Gehrig, in his third season as a regular, was able to hit five more home runs than Hornsby's National League record, and as many or more than Ruth hit in 1919, 1923, 1924, 1925, or 1926, was somewhat overlooked in the excitement of Ruth's final record-breaking 60.

It seems that with a team of such super-batting skill, and with pitchers like Hoyt, Pennock, and Moore, Miller Huggins' thoughts must all be optimistic.

Feg Murray Says—
DIRT CHEAP?

"He raced a good field into the ground for $1,000 yards....." from newspaper account of one of Hahn's victories.

Expensive, these subways.

Cleveland Team Is Big Surprise

Roger Peckinpaugh Leads Cleveland Indians To Top Of American League

PIRATES-DETROIT ARE DISAPPOINTING

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 23.—The disappointing performances of Pittsburgh and Detroit, and the phenomenal playing of the Cleveland Indians continue to feature the big league pennant races. The Pirates and the Tigers, rated as strong contenders, are in last place in their respective leagues today while the Indians, regarded before the season opened as probable occupants of the second division, enjoy a lead of two games in the American league.

George Grantham's terrific hitting has been the only bright spot in the playing of the Pirates, who dropped their sixth game in eight straight yesterday. Johnny Miljus, mound star of the champions, lost a 3 to 2 decision to Percy Jones of the Cubs when Stephenson tripled in the eighth and scored on a sacrifice fly.

At present the Cubs are playing the best ball in the league, having won five of their last eight games.

Three For Uhle

George Uhle of Cleveland hung up his third straight victory in winning a 2 to 1 duel from Blaeholder of the St. Louis Browns. The Indians have copped five of their last seven games while the Browns have dropped six of their last eight contests after a splendid start.

The Detroit Tigers, who showed signs of life during the first part of last week, have fallen into evil ways again. Ted Lyons of the White Sox beat them yesterday, 9 to 3. Fothergill and Neun, who starred for Detroit last year, have been replaced by rookies—Easterling and Sweeney.

Rothrock and Hofmann swung a mean shillalah as the Red Sox captured an 8 to 5 slugfest from Washington. Irv Hadley, the Nat's mound ace, took the count in the second inning.

Washington and the Yankees, tied for second place, cross bats today for the first time this season. New York's stock went up today with the announcement that Urban Shocker, probably would sign a contract today.

JACK DUNN

Jack Dunn, veteran pilot of the Baltimore Orioles, has developed a lot of star ball players both for his team and for the market in general.

Today his club is fat in past victories and coin of the realm from the sale of players, but faces a barren and meager future.

Last winter Dunn worked overtime selling players. It was great stuff for the club pocketbook, but it means that if the Orioles would repeat in any measure their startling successes of recent years they will have to begin at the bottom again.

Jewish Athletic Club Opens Drive For New Members

The newly organized Jewish Athletic Club will hold a membership drive this week, starting today and ending with a general meeting on Monday, April 30th.

The purpose and aim of the organization is to promote and foster athletics of all kinds among the Jewish men and boys of the city. J. F. Perelman, president of the association, feels that with a good aim and purpose such as the club has, it will be an easy matter to raise the necessary quota of members.

The following committee has been appointed to conduct the drive: Mont Blau, chairman; Gus Slovonsky, Nate Love, Eph Solomon and Harry Davids.

Sport Ritticisms

The annual blowout and detour season is at hand. From now on, decrepit vehicles will clog up our brand new highways with their gas consuming activities.

Driving used to be sport but now it's a nuisance of a motorized but still dumb civilization. Many of the nitwits who cut in corners should be cutting out paper dolls in some giggle factory instead.

The new model cars look nice, but they are the same old nick in the bank book. Punctures will continue to appear at intervals and the only way to drive a car without gas is downhill.

Pulaski Township Delegation Here On Road Situation

Hearing Being Held Before Judge Chambers In J. P. Buchanan Case

Hearing is being held before Judge Chambers today on a petition presented by Pulaski citizens in which they are seeking to oust J. P. Buchanan, one of the road supervisors, for failure to keep the streets in Pulaski and other roads in the vicinity, in good condition. Between 35 and 40 witnesses are present, both for and against the petition.

Howard Michaels was the first witness called. He told about the condition of the streets in Pulaski, the Pulaski and New Bedford road, and the Edenburg and Pulaski road. He claimed that in the village of Rulaski he had seen several automobiles stuck in chuck holes. Asked on cross examination if he had ever notified Mr. Buchanan he replied that he had not, but presumed that Buchanan knew of the condition of the road.

Other witnesses for the petition gave similar testimony. Witnesses for Buchanan claimed that there had been several severe storms that had resulted in washouts, also that when the frost went out of the ground it was impossible for the road supervisors to attend to all of the roads at once. Buchanan claimed that he had been doing the best he could under the conditions.

U. S. Baby Star

That's Razzo Carroll, 18, Olympic Soccer Player

RAZZO CARROLL.

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

BAYONNE N. J. April 23.—Razzo Carroll the Bayonne "boy wonder" will be the baby of the American Olympic team.

When the 18-year-old high school soccer star was selected as a member of the American ball booting team he became the youngest athlete on the U. S. Olympic roster.

Razzo or Henry as he is known to his relatives has earned his honors due to years of stellar work on the soccer fields of this section.

William "Bill" Findley also of this city a member of he 1924 Olympic soccer team is a member of the aggregation that will compete at Amsterdam. He is 24.

This city of 90,000 people has gone "dippy" over young Carroll whose performances on the Bayonne high school baseball and basketball teams has brought him state-wide recognition. The school has no soccer team. Last year Carroll was named shortstop on the All-State baseball team selected by the State Interscholastic Athletic association and this year was named as a guard on the All-State basketball team by the same body.

Carroll and Findlay gained their places on the soccer team at the final Olympic try-out held at St. Louis, Mo., when the All-Eastern and All-Western teams met. They played with the east and Carroll scored one of his team's goals although he did not play a full game .East won 3-1.

The name "Razzo' Carroll is a byword in every household of the city where there is a boy. He is a junior in school and easily one of the most popular students. He claims never to have had a "date." He dislikes publicity.

During the past winter "Razzo" received offers to join Baltimore and Jersey City of the International Baseball league. He has his eye on a number of college scholarships however and intends entering some institution of higher education upon his graduation.

* * *

Carroll started his soccer career four years ago as a member of the Rover football team of Bayonne, the team with which he still plays. His position is inside right. Findlay plays outside right with the Galicia F. C. of New York. Following the Olympic contests he will join the Galicia who will be in Spain on a tour of Europe.

Francis A. Brick principal of Bayonne high school will provide for special examinations for Carroll if Razzo cares to study while on the trip to Europe.

A special assembly was held at the school of his honor when Razzo returned from St. Louis. The whole city is to join in a testimonial in honor of both its representatives in the world's greatest carnival of sports.

Bayonne has been represented by two other native sons of the Olympics. In 1924 Joey Lazarus then a student at Cornell university made the boxing team. Ray C. Ewry who still holds an international standing broad jump record was a member of the track team about 20 years ago.

Buckeye Girls Baseball Team To Play Again

Making Plans For Coming Season At Buckeye Manufacturing Plant

The Buckeye baseball girls, city champs of last season are planning on another good season this year. At a recent meeting all last year's players assembled with some new candidates and plans for the coming season were laid out. New uniforms and equipment will be purchased. Practice session will commence Monday and will be held in doors at the Buckeye for one week during which time the diamond will be put in shape after which the girls will take to the outside.

The girls will play many more games this year as there will be some new teams in the city representing the Johnson Bronze Co., American Can Co. and possibly the Tin Mill. A girl's city or industrial league may be organized as baseball is becoming very popular among the girls and if last year's attendence may be taken as a criterion the fans will also flock to girls baseball.

The business manager of the Buckeye is in communication with girls teams in Sharon, Youngstown, Akron and other surrounding towns and the Buckeye girls expect to land some out of town teams both for games at home and abroad. He may be reached either by calling 1579 or writing to Box No. 392.

Diamond Notes

William Pannell, manager of the National Radiator Colored Stars announced today that starting tonight and all this week that the team would hold practice sessions. The team is entered again in the Lawrence County Twilight league.

The Arthur McGill Midgets defeated the Highland school team 17 to 16 in a game played on Friday afternoon at Boyles field. Houston pitched for the Midgets and Purdue for the Highland team. It was a seven inning game.

The South Side Pirates will be represented by a strong team this year as follows: S. Binder, G. Evans, M. Kulich, P. Coates, H. Harris, H. Houston, A. Roher, J. Hill, W. Hill, G. Thomas, P. Hudson G. Mike and M. Taylor. All first-class teams desiring games can arrange them by calling 543-R and asking for Steve Binder. The club held a very successful meeting on Sunday and perfected plans for the coming season.

Teachers Attend Conference Event

Some twenty-five teachers of the New Castle schools attended the session of the Pennsylvania State Educational Association held in Pittsburgh on Saturday. Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of school also attended and was one of the speakers of the day.

Miss Emilie Salomon, art supervisor of the New Castle schools has returned from Hartford, Conn., where she attended the convention of art teachers. On her way back she visited some of the eastern schools.

MAY OBTAIN UNIFORMS

Girls of the Minnehaha Troop may secure their uniforms which came this morning by going to the home of their captain, Mrs. W. H. Hanger, 118 East Wallace avenue.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News

Bullet Joe Bush has started his seventeenth campaign in the major leagues. Hero of as many few-hit games in the distant past as any hurler, the A's veteran has lived through the era of hurling routs that have characterized recent seasons past.

"What change in the game in recent years brought about these wild games?" the Athletic moundsman was asked.

"Freer hitting," was Bush's prompt answer.

"By freer hitting I don't mean that due to any possible changes in the baseball. My point is that the ever growing desire for home runs or at least extra base hits has caused a general revision in the style of hitting.

"Fourteen and 15 years ago many batters studied and mastered the art of place hitting. Le y Lajoie, Tris Speaker, Frank Bake and those fellows, for instance. Few men swung from the tail, as the players say, or took a long grip on the bat and a full swing with it. Their main ambition was to poke out a safe hit, drop it neatly over the infield. Few of them sought distance hitting records. Nine or 10 home runs a season was a great record.

"A man had to beat out his hits. The difference in batting averages between those days and today can't be explained by a livelier ball. Then the .300 hitters in either league could be counted on the fingers of your two hands. Now you read almost half way down the list of batting averages to get below the .300 hitters. A man who hits .298 is not a good hitter.

"Home Run Baker started the home run era. And the year that he started it he collected only 10 or 11 in the season. The few he collected in the world's series that followed electrified the world.

"Batters began to try for long hits Fellows who had been choking their bats began to lengthen their holds.

"The days when a pitcher with a two-run lead felt that he had the game on ice faded away. A long hit with men on base could wipe out that lead.

"This home run craze, however, has done more than anything else to improve batting in general. Men who were fair hitters realized that to hold their own in the game they had to improve their batting. They studied their own styles and those of the others closer and learned many things about hitting—their faults in stance, swing, etc.

"This hitting craze has handicapped the pitchers in that it has made them fearful of taking chances in a tight game. They can't shake the knowledge that one timely hit—with a full swing behind it—can ruin their game.

"On the other hand I don't believe that the younger pitchers today are studying their games and themselves as much as they should. They don't work the batters as carefully as they should; nor do they try to uncover the hitter's weakness.

"The boys don't experiment with their own delivery to the point where they get the most effective results from it. A man must know what his best asset is and when to use it to do his best work.

"The lack of good pitchers can't be held up as the reason for the freer hitting. Take my own case for instance.

"I started in 1912. In 1916 and 1917 I must have been a better pitcher. At least I had had more experience and a better knowledge of the batters. Yet, I found it harder to turn in low-hit games.

"Check up on the number of place hitters and choke hitters in baseball today as against 15 years ago and you'll have the answer to the wild game question."

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 23.—A 7-point jump in Radio common to 179, followed within ten minutes by a decline in the same stock to 170, was evidence aplenty of the unsettled condition of the market in early trading today. After a firm opening, the industrial leaders were freely sold in this period, with resultant losses of 1 to 3 points in General Motors, General Electric, Chrysler Motor, American Can and Allied Chemical. The oils were firm, but joined the reactionary move when selling orders flooded the market.

A wave of selling passed over the whole market near the end of the first hour, and prices were swept downward.

The rails and oils held steadily in this period, Sinclair losing most of its early spurt to around 28.

Call money renewals started the new week at 4¾ per cent.

Industrial stocks were unsettled in the second hour, though good buying demand was in evidence at slight concessions from last weeks final prices.

NEW REFRAIN

Three Irishmen who had been in this country but a short time attended a musical program. The first one said, "What is that piece they are playing?"

Number two answered, "That is 'The Six Steps of Lucy'."

"You're all wrong," said number three. "It is 'The Devil's Son by Faust.'"

"It tells on that card up in front," said number one. "I will go see." He made his way down the aisle looked at the card and came back with this declaration. "You're both wrong. It is the 'Refrain from Spitting'."

"Bossy" Gillis In Pittsburgh

Newburyport, Massachusetts Mayor In Pittsburgh To Start Marathon Dance

IS SELF-NAMED GREATEST MAYOR

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 23.—Mayor Andrew J. (Bossy) Gillis, one-time filling station operator of Newburyport, Mass., who admits that he has become one of the three greatest mayors in the United States, will act as starter at the world's championship marathon dancing contest at Motor Square Garden here tonight. During the day he will pay official calls upon Mayor Charles Kline and other prominent city officials.

The marathon dance is a good thing, Bossy believes, because it gives the people something to be interested in, but "if you don't like it you don't have to go to it." In no uncertain terms he branded prohibition as a failure, blue laws as a "flop", gasoline prices as too high and Calvin Coolidge as "not so hot politically".

Preparations were being rushed for the opening of the marathon. Entrants will be examined and registered throughout the day, according to Col. D. Crandell, director. A grand march of contestants will precede the actual opening of the dance, when Mayor Gillis will start the marathoners along the blistered road to fame.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Roaming round over the week-end was rather a damp bit of business. Driving was no pleasure and walking was even worse. Chimney corners and overstuffed divans had the edge in popularity and the wise lad stayed inside.

Did a little visiting in some new club rooms on Mill street, the Tigers club. Rather a ferocious name but the name is the fiercest thing of it all. The club rooms are as comfortable as a kid glove, with the kind of furniture that promotes that satisfied feeling.

The Tigers club is composed of young men, some of them in business or the professions, some in trades and some still in college. The motives back of the club are the promotions of clean sport, entertainment and recreation. Several minstrel shows have been staged successfully and other activities are planned. The president of the club is J. V. Bullano; W. M. Chill, vice president; Carl Scungio, financial secretary; Vitus Conti, treasurer; Emilia Strizzi, corresponding secretary; Michael Ross, purchasing agent; Leopold DeFiore, business manager.

Sometime ago the Kenneth A. Smith Bible class of the Central Christian church was mentioned in this colyum. At that time mention was made of the increasing size of the class and its potentialities. It's getting bigger. Yesterday morning the class was presented with trophies for its championship basketball team, one of them being emblematic of the championship of the church league. But basketball is just one of the activities of the class. The players are more interested, if possible, in the success of the class than they are in the success of the athletics of the class.

This is the week New Castle welcomes the visiting Rotarians. Now there are a lot of interesting men coming in, but one of them in particular is a chap I want to meet, Strickland Gilliland. If you ever heard "Off Agin, On Agin, Gone Agin, Finnegan" you have heard one of Gilliland's creations. In addition he is one of America's funniest humorists, and nothing that Strick Gilliland ever wrote offended the most fastidious.

Another visitor will be Warden Ashe of the Western penitentiary. Some day one of the civic clubs will make a ten strike and have Mr. Ashe here for an address on his institution.

How To Achieve Beauty

HAIR PROBLEMS

There are so many of them, it is difficult to begin even to classify them correctly. The first and perhaps most prevalent is Dandruff.

Dandruff, contrary to current opinion, is not an exaggerated condition of dry scalp. Dandruff is an actual germ disease, a disease which has become tremendously widespread.

The most sanitary measures in the world do not seem capable of preventing the spread of dandruff. Fortunately it is sufficiently disagreeable to manifest itself at once, and there are remedies which attack the cause, the tiny long-lived germs which prosper and multiply so rapidly.

Dandruff lotions must be medicated. There are two kinds of dandruff, one the dry dandruff (Sicca) and the other, far more virulent and difficult to check, oily dandruff (Oleosa) where the glands emit an abnormal amount of oil. This condition reveals a red, irritated scalp. In treating oily dandruff, frequent shampoos are advisable. A medicated scalp food will serve to nourish the weakened hair roots and restore normal, healthful activity to the glands.

Dry dandruff may be treated in exactly the same way, except that a weekly shampoo will be adequate.

Next on the list of hair problems is excessive oiliness, another highly unpleasant condition, and here is a simple home treatment which I am sure you will find very effective. Separate strands of hair into parts and brush common salt into them. Go over the whole head carefully, shaking the salt into the uncovered scalp and follow with a good herbal shampoo. Be sure and wash very thoroughly, using several rinse waters, or better still, a good rubber spray, and lather two or three times. Hot oil treatments are excellent, but be careful not to have the oil too hot for comfortable application. Very hot oil has some times been to blame for hair trouble.

Falling hair can best be corrected through scalp food and scalp stimulation. To stimulate the scalp, I advise frequent brushings, using military brushes and a nightly scalp loosening, which may be done by placing the palms of your hands on the side of the head, with a strong pressure and moving the scalp with rotary movements. The only preventive of gray hair is constant care and attention to the health of your scalp and the health of your body, because the condition of your hair is always reflective of your general health.

Good hair denotes good care, regular shampoos, occasional tonics, scalp massage and medicated correctives for the conditions which require it.
